BIGGEST RAID FIRES BERLIN

2 German Ports Blasted; Liverpool Laid in Ruins

British RAF bombers smashed at Berlin, Hamburg and Bremen "in the heaviest raid yet launched on Germany," it was officially announced in London today, while several hundred Nazi planes struck with fire bombs and high explosives at the port of Liverpool.

Berlin listed 16 killed and 37 wounded as RAF bombs shattered an 82-day period of immunity from aerial attack enjoyed by the German capital. The last raid on Berlin was Dec. 22.

In Bremen three persons were killed and three wounded, Berlin admitted.

A British communique acknowledged the Luftwaffe's assault on Liverpool was "the first large-scale raid" on England "in some months."

Hamburg and Bremen Raked

By the Associated Press
LONDON, March 13—The British air force, throwing new and more powerful bombers into its greatest assault of the war, blasted Germany and German-held territory from Berlin to Boulogne and Norway in the last 24 hours, the air ministry said today, and was "very successful."

Tremendous fires and explosions were declared by the air ministry to have been started in Berlin, Hamburg and Bremen and a German destroyer was reported torpedoed in the Skagerrak, arm of the North sea between Norway and Denmark.

Matching the massive offensive operations, informed sources said Britain now was prepared also to fill the skies over England with night fighters to fend off the Luftwaffe's destructive dawn-to-dawn assaults.

NAZI CITIES SET AFIRE

The air ministry announced that "large and numerous" fires were started in Berlin by the raiders using "very heavy bombs." At Bremen, it said direct hits were scored on "a target of great importance" in the industrial area of the city and that at Hamburg "many fires and explosions" were started in shipyards and the industrial section.

Five British planes were acknowledged lost in these smashing blows, which the air ministry itself described as "the heaviest attack yet made on Germany."

"The attacks extended from Berlin to Boulogne," the official announcement said. "They were carried out by the light of the moon and were very successful."

"In addition to the older type of aircraft of the bomber command, several new and more powerful types were again in

Liverpool Ruin 'Like Coventry'

By the Associated Press
BERLIN, March 13—Destruction "exceeding that at Coventry" was reported by German sources today to have been wrought in a vast night raid on Liverpool, in which they said several hundred planes dropped bombs for hours.

The high command said the attack on the Liverpool area was carried out by several hundred planes in waves, and DNB, official news agency, said returning crewmen declared the devastation was worse than at Coventry, the Midlands industrial town virtually razed on Nov. 14.

"Hell broke loose on the Mersey," one pilot reported, describing an "ocean of flames" visible 25 minutes' flight away from the scene.

LIST HUGE DAMAGE

Another observer declared 10,000 explosives and incendiary bombs were dropped, many ships in the harbor were damaged and huge losses were inflicted, especially among grain elevators and storehouses.

During daylight raids on England yesterday, the Germans said, their planes dropped bombs on the northwest portion of a Fort William aluminum plant, causing a blaze visible about 50 miles away.

5% U. S. Weekly Wage Tax Urged to Pay for British Aid

WASHINGTON, March 13 (AP)—Congressional fiscal experts, casting about for new revenue sources to help pay for the $7,000,000,000 British aid program, were reported considering today the possibility of imposing a 5 per cent tax on the weekly pay of most of the nation's workers.

If such a 5 per cent "earned income" tax should be levied, that amount would be deducted from the government each week from the pay envelopes of a large proportion of jobholders. Thus a worker now receiving $40 weekly would get, instead, $38 and a tax receipt for $2. Small wage earners—possibly those receiving $25 weekly or less—would be exempted.

Although it was emphasized that this proposal was merely in the discussion stage and might never mature, responsible individuals who have been studying the plan said they had received estimates that a 5 per cent levy of this nature would raise $3,500,000,000 yearly.

Acknowledging that the proposal might arouse a storm of protest from wage earners, advocates said it would have to be accompanied by commensurate increases in taxes upon incomes from investments, rentals and other sources so that there could be no discrimination.

It would entail, they pointed out, a reversal of previous administration policy of easing taxes on wage earners as much as possible and for that reason was expected to elicit little support at the Treasury or White House.

Against this suggestion for an invasion of a new field of revenue Chairman Harrison (D.) of Mis-issippi of the Senate finance committee told reporters that he personally felt that present taxes should be revised upward without attempting to bring in untaxed levies. Estimating that Congress might be asked to provide an additional $1,500,000,000 in new revenue this session, Harrison said he felt there might be some justifiable increases in excess profits levies and normal corporation tax, as long as rates were not boosted so high that they would hurt business and result in reduced, rather than boosted, revenues.

Agreeing largely with Harrison, Senator George (D.) of Georgia, next ranking Democratic member of the committee, said it might be necessary to raise to 30 per cent the present flat rate of 24 per cent on corporations earning more than $25,000 a year.

George predicted that this action would have to be accompanied with

DEFENSE BANS MORE ALUMINUM PANS

CLEVELAND, March 13 (AP)—The aluminum utensil industry has been told by the national defense priorities board that "it is out of business," the chief of the defense contract service said today.

Robert L. Mehornay told a press conference 60 members of the Aluminum Utensils Manufacturers Ass'n were informed in Washington yesterday they would not be able to get any aluminum in future but they could use the material they have on hand.

The ban on manufacture of aluminum pots and pans is the first "total" restriction since the defense program started, Mahornay said. The Utensil industry takes 10 per cent of normal aluminum production.

The ban will force 21,000 workers in the aluminum kitchen utensil field to make defense items or go idle, Mehornay said, expressing belief airplane manufacturers would let sub-contracts to this branch of industry.

Testifies $21,000 Paid to Lyons, Pal

Of the $63,000-odd he received from the city of Cambridge for architect's fees, he paid $13,000 in bills into the hand of Paul Mannos and $8000 into the hand of Mayor John W. Lyons of Cambridge, Charles R. Greco, Winchester and Boston architect, testified in Middlesex superior court today.

MRS. RUTH STEADMAN

Named in First Degree Murder Indictment

INDICT MRS. STEADMAN FOR MURDER OF EMERY

After four days of hearing evidence, the Suffolk County grand jury today indicted Mrs. Ruth Steadman, former Needham girl, on a charge of first degree murder in the death of Robert Emery, 26-year-old Natick realty dealer.

The indictment charges Mrs. Steadman 27-year-old blonde, "did assault and beat one Robert Emery with intent to murder him, and by such assault and beating did kill and murder the said Robert Emery."

Emery was found dead on Jan. 21, in the West End apartment occupied by Mrs. Steadman, who for some time had been estranged from her husband, who has her little daughter.

A clothesline as drawn round Emery's neck and beside the body was a glass containing a sleeping potion, poisonous if taken in an overdose.

Mrs. Steadman was in an adjoining room unconscious.

According to police, she subsequently made a statement that she had mixed with milk a heavy dose of the drug and had given it to Emery, then had drawn the rope round his neck.

She had despaired, she said, because they were both married and their mutual love thus was hopeless. She also said she had bought the death drug with the objective a suicide pact with Emery.

She will be arraigned in superior court Tuesday.

At the same time Greco testified to a rift between Mannos and Lyons that had been marked at one time by Mannos saying:

"If I go to jail Lyons will go with me."

Greco testified that in November, 1938, he received $4459.50 from the city of Cambridge for work on the municipal garage and a month later $8040.

"On Dec. 15 I paid Mannos $1500 in cash," he testified. "Later I gave him $300, and $300, and other payments. Every time I got a payment from the city, Mannos would call me up."

HANDED MAYOR $2500

"On March 17, 1939, I received a payment of $15,328 for work on the high school. That time I was called by Lyons. He told me to come to his house and give him the money. I walked into his home and put $2500 in bills in his hand and told him I'd have the other half later. He told me not to give any more money to Mannos."

"He told me he needed the money for campaign expenses. On July 7 I was paid $4284.07 for work on the garage."

"I gave Lyons $2000 in cash that time, to try to pay up my account. I had a kind of running account. On July 29 I was paid $5732.69 for work on the high school. I met Mannos and he said the money was for him. I said: 'No, it's for the mayor.' He said: 'No, it's for me.' I couldn't find the mayor, so I gave it to him."

"I gave him $1900 in bills and some odd change. He kicked at taking the change. I had refused an endorsed check from the Kimball Co. for the money. I told Kimball Mannos wanted cash."

LISTS PAYMENTS

He listed other payments, of which he paid out a third, as follows:

Aug. 4, 1939, $2842.91 for high school work, he couldn't remember to whom he made the payment; November, 1939, $3699.84 for high school, he "thought" to the mayor.

Dec. 11, $2502.62, high school, "probably" to the mayor; Jan. 16, 1940, $5191.56, incinerator, to Mannos; March 8, 1940, $3846.17, high school, to Lyons.

"That time Lyons phoned me to come down to see him," Greco testified. "He told me again not to give any more money to Mannos; that he had had trouble with him in Miami. I gave Lyons $1200 in bills."

"On March 1 I saw Mannos. He said he was broke, that he had been in Florida with the mayor and had to borrow money to get home."

Continuing with his list of payments he testified: March 3, $1203.84, garage, to Lyons; April 18, Continued on Page 24, Column 2

$200,000 HEART BALM BATTLE NEARING JURY

Never—said his sister on the witness stand today—did she hear any talk of marriage between Vernal E. Clem, 63-year-old Jamaica Plain dairy executive, and Mrs. Ceil Patterson, 46-year-old divorcee.

The sister, Mrs. Glendora Eddy of Cambridge, N. Y., was the final witness in the superior court trial of Mrs. Patterson's $200,000 breach of promise suit against the dairyman.

Mrs. Eddy was first questioned by Atty. James M. Graham, counsel for her brother.

Q—Did you say to Mrs. Patterson and your brother, Mr. Clem,

"When are you folks going to get married?" and Mr. Clem said, "We are going to do it any time, and when it's done it will be done quickly?" I never heard any such conversation.

Q—How many times did you see Mrs. Patterson on the Cape? A—About three times.

Q—Was there any talk of marriage? A—No.

Atty. Joseph Schneider, counsel for Mrs. Patterson, took Mrs. Eddy in cross-examination:

Q—How did your brother and Mrs. Patterson act toward one another? A—Well—pleasant.

Q—Did you, in describing your brother, say he was jealous of Mrs. Patterson? A—No.

The defense then rested its case.

Heat Ocean For Olivia

HOLLYWOOD, March 13 (AP)—Here's a new splash in movie bathtubs!

Director Mitchell Leisen says he's going to warm up a part of the Pacific ocean so Olivia de Havilland can bathe in it while the camera grinds.

Now he's preparing for a scene in which Olivia, honeymooning with Charles Foy in "Hold Back the Dawn," takes a dip in the ocean.

Olivia recently had her appendix removed and the Pacific temperature, this time of the year, is a chill 59 degrees.

So Leisen says he will, within the next two weeks, have steam pipes buried in the beach near here and will pipe steam into the surf. For a portable steam plant, he'll use a 1904-model fire engine.

He proposes to heat an area considerably larger, he says, than the ordinary bathtub.

$7,000,000,000 Bill In House by Tuesday

WASHINGTON, March 13 (AP)—Speaker Rayburn told his press conference today it was planned to have the $7,000,000,000 British-aid appropriation bill ready for the House on Tuesday and that efforts would be made to pass it the same day.

A short time before a House appropriations subcommittee was to start brief, secret hearings on the huge measure, acting Chairman Woodrum (D.) of Virginia told newsmen he hoped to conclude the testimony late tomorrow.

"The time has come for action," the Virginian said. "There's been enough talk."

MEANS BUSINESS

Although the magnitude of the aid program was enormous, its announcement created few ripples on Capitol Hill. One informed legislator said that the size of President Roosevelt's request had a definite purpose—"to demonstrate that Uncle Sam means business."

Secretary Hull was the first on the list of high Administration officials called to appear before the House appropriations subcommittee for brief, secret testimony. Rep. Woodrum (D.) of Virginia, the acting chairman, said the State Department head would be followed by Secretaries Morgenthau, Simon, Knox, Gen. George C. Marshall, Army chief of staff; Admiral Harold R. Stark, chief of naval operations, and William S. Knudsen, defense production chief.

FOR EARLY DEBATE

Woodrum said he planned to close the hearing Saturday, if possible, so as to bring the bill to the House floor for debate early next week.

Vocal opposition to provision of the huge fund was conspicuously lacking, although some legislators privately expressed doubt that so much money actually was necessary to get the program going.

As the committee prepared to begin its deliberations there was talk that President Roosevelt might make some dramatic effort to accelerate the nation's industrial machinery and get faster production for the aid program.

It was suggested in some quarters the Chief Executive might appeal for such a speed-up in a "fire-side chat," or that he might call for lengthening of the work-week in some industries. Defense chiefs have said all along, however, that "bottleneck" industries already are on a 24-hour basis.

SAVANNAH, Ga., March 13 (AP)—Private William W. Woodburn of Haverhill, Mass., was shot to death a few moments after he went off easy duty today at the army air base here.

"All the evidence indicates it was purely accidental," said Capt. J. H. Duke, base adjutant and public relations officer.

A preliminary hearing report said the fatal bullet was fired from a pistol he given a routine inspection by sentry going on duty and struck Woodburn in the heart.

Capt. Duke said a formal investigation would be conducted.

46 MILLIONS FOR N. E. SHIPBUILDING SOUGHT

WASHINGTON, March 13 (AP)—A $3,446,585,144 appropriation bill to carry forward the two-ocean Navy construction program was presented to the House today along with a warning from the Navy's high command that the critical world situation "may continue to grow worse for some time to come."

More than $46,000,000 of the above amount will be immediately allotted to New England navy yards and shipbuilding concerns.

Recommending the huge outlay for the year starting July 1, the appropriations committee told the House that the fleet expansion program called for "collateral expenses of staggering proportions" and $5,553,978,000 additional will have to be appropriated during the fiscal years 1943-46, solely to complete the current shipbuilding program.

729 SHIPS PLANNED

A total of 729 ships of all types and categories is now under construction or contracted for and, when completed, will give the United States the most powerful navy in world history.

A fund of $1,515,000,000, the largest single item in the bill, is for shipbuilding. Other large items include $434,500,000 for the naval aircraft program, aimed at procurement of 7129 planes which were ordered last year, and the maintenance and operation of aircraft and air stations, $443,000,000 for maintenance and operation of the existing fleet; $475,000,000 for pay, subsistence and training of personnel and $321,342,960 for expansion or establishment of naval shore bases.

By far the largest share asked for New England goes to the Bethlehem Shipbuilding Corp., Fore River, and the Boston Navy Yard.

The Bethlehem yard, where the battleship Massachusetts, four aircraft carriers, 16 cruisers and four destroyers are under contract, already has contracts for $17,507,500 for expansion of shipways, tools and equipment.

The Boston Navy Yard, with 21 destroyers on its production program, would get a total of $16,613,000 if the Navy carries out its present expansion program.

SEEKS 31 MILLIONS MORE

In addition to this sum for both the Boston yard itself and the South Boston drydock facilities, Rep. Bates (R.) of Massachusetts is seeking congressional authorization for another $31,000,000 at the Boston establishment which would make it, Bates said, the largest naval repair base on the continent. A total of $8,335,500 was listed for the Portsmouth, N. H., submarine yard, where 17 submarines have been assigned.

At the Bath Iron Works, Bath, Me., total expenditures may reach $3,250,000 to facilitate construction of 27 destroyers, and at the Electric Boat Co., Groton, Ct., $4,600,000, where 45 submarines are to be built.

The total naval strength being constructed in New England, according to Navy statistics, is one battleship, four aircraft carriers, 16 cruisers, 62 destroyers and 52 submarines.

As the New England plants continue their expansion, the Navy expects they will reach a peak of employment late in 1942.

The House appropriations committee recommended expenditures of $3,609,000 for New England to keep its shore establishments and hospitals in pace with the shipbuilding program, reducing Navy recommendations by $241,000.

RHODE ISLAND ($1,532,562)—Quonset Point, $575,562, of which $360,000 is for ammunition storage, $100,000 for recreation building, $115,562 for hospital facilities of 100 beds; Newport, $951,800, of which $400,000 is for improvements in the power plant, $25,000 for improving wharves at the naval station, $700 for hospital facilities, $128,900 for the war college, $350,000 for the training station maintenance; naval fuel depot, Sangley Point, $65,000 for additional gasoline storage.

CONNECTICUT ($28,000)—New London submarine base, $16,000 for dispensary and X-ray laboratory, $10,000 for furniture and equipment of barracks and dispensary.

Navy Lists Vast Explosives Stores

WASHINGTON, March 13 (INS)—Warning the international situation "might grow worse," high Navy chiefs have disclosed to Congress gasoline for fleet operations is stored on various "mid-Pacific islands" and that storage of explosives and munitions near the east coast is planned because of "possibly greater activity in the Atlantic." House appropriations committee testimony revealed today.

Both Secretary Knox and Admiral Harold R. Stark, chief of operations, warned the committee of the European crisis in general statements, while Rear Admiral W. R. Furlong, chief of the bureau of ordnance, and Capt. Ezra G. Allen, budget officer, told of the fuel and explosive stores.

Admiral Furlong said explosives "which can be loaded into bombs, depth charges and projectiles," are to be stored in the new "East coast depot" in Martin County, Ind., "on account of possibly greater activity in the Atlantic."

Other highlights of naval preparedness in the 800-page document included:

The Navy Department is planning to drop the traditional whites and uniforms its men in khaki because "a white uniform on board ship is time of use

ONE U. S. BATTLESHIP FIRES ON ANOTHER 'TO TEST GUNS'

WASHINGTON, March 13 (AP)—One of the battleships of the United States fleet recently opened fire on another—for experimental purposes, it was disclosed today.

Rear Admiral Samuel M. Robinson, chief of the Bureau of Ships, mentioned the episode very briefly in his testimony before the House appropriations committee.

The test, he said, was to determine the effects of projectiles and it showed that improvements could be made in the construction of gun turrets. The improvements would cost about $40,000 for each warship, he estimated.

The testimony gave no further details as to the circumstances of the naval experiment, or the ships involved.

stands out and makes too good a target."

At a cost of $25 a man, gas masks, impregnated clothing, smoke helmets and other anti-gas attack equipment have been purchased for the entire sea-going personnel.

A great proportion of fighting ships already have been equipped with a newly developed "De-gaussing method" of combatting magnetic mines and with the latest anti-aircraft and bomb splinter protective devices.

The Navy is rapidly acquiring equipment to lay anti-submarine nets outside harbors and to maintain small vessels to tend gates to permit passage of friendly ships.

Naval scientists have developed a new eight-inch projectile able "to pierce a given thickness of armor plate at much greater range," new submarine detecting devices, radio equipment and expect soon to have "motors and generators weighing 25 per cent less than present designs and giving 25 per cent more power."

In order to conserve on steel, a possible shortage of which Knox told the committee had him "worried," the Navy is working on hidden, underground concrete gasoline storage equipment to replace metal tanks.

Stepfather Is Held for Beating Baby

Alleged to have beaten his two-year-old stepdaughter so badly that she had to be taken to City Hospital, Francis Wenzler, 23, of Swallow st., South Boston, was arraigned today in South Boston court.

Police said the child, little Jeanne White, had taken a terrific beating and at the hospital was found to be suffering from multiple cuts and abrasions on her head and body and both her eyes had been blackened.

The baby was taken from the Wenzler home to the hospital last night by an agent of the Massachusetts Society for Prevention of Cruelty to Children, following complaints by neighbors.

Wenzler was charged with assault and battery on his stepdaughter, and after the hearing Judge Leo Leary continued the case until March 25, meanwhile sending Wenzler to Boston Psychopathic Hospital for 10 days' observation.

SOLONS TOLD OF VAST FRAUD ON BORROWERS

Some types of money lenders are mulcting Massachusetts borrowers of between $50,000,000 and $100,000,000 a year, it was charged today by former Asst. Atty-Gen. Maurice A. Goldman before the legislative committee on banks and banking at the State House.

He urged the committee to report favorably on 12 recommendations made by former Atty-Gen. Paul A. Dever, designed to curb activities of such loan groups. Goldman said the recommendations resulted from a six-year investigation.

When Goldman asserted some money lenders were charging interest rates far in excess of what the law allowed Sen. Donald Nickerson of Wareham asked:

"What do you want us to do? Get some new district attorneys? We are here to make laws, not enforce them. You say the laws are not being enforced."

DEVER ALSO HEARD

Goldman retorted: "It is up to you to pass laws that will protect people. I say you have passed some laws but you haven't scratched the surface." Dever, who preceded Goldman, talked on a total of 15 recommendations, three of which were directed at banking institutions.

In supporting his plea for a favorable report to the Legislature he said:

"We had several criminal prosecutions and in every instance the defendant was found guilty of a deliberate, vicious, inhuman crime of preying on human adversity. There are countless examples of this."

"I have more respect for the man who takes money from your pocket and is subject to a term of imprisonment for larceny than I have for the conscienceless lenders who prey upon their victims."

Atty-Gen. Robert T. Bushnell may be requested to investigate the circulation of a petition for a reduction of rates charged by the Haverhill Electric Co., Carroll L. Meins, chairman of the Public Utilities Commission said following a commission hearing on the petition today.

George A. Lagare, 50 Moody st., and Joseph Comeau, 29 Seventh st., both of Haverhill, told the commission that they had never signed the petition, which bore their names. They submitted samples of their signatures.

Gloucester city officials and marine fishery organizations unanimously urged the legislative committee on harbors and public lands today to report favorably three bills providing for the dredging of Annisquam river and Gloucester harbor as an aid to the fishing industry of the city.

BOSSY BATTLES BILL

Still in form—and voice—despite a lapse from public life, former Mayor Andrew J. "Bossy" Gillis of Newburyport roared a protest against pensioning judges and declared he considered "a lot of you lawyers phonies."

Gillis, before the committee on judiciary, opposed a bill to give retired appellate judges $1000 higher pensions than those paid district judges, and described Judge Nathaniel N. Jones of Newbury-port, its sponsor, as an "ingrate."

Told by the committee to keep to the subject, Gillis returned to his seat, picked up his hat and coat and stormed out of the hearing room, shouting over his shoulder:

"I may be sitting in your seat some day—I might even be mayor of Newburyport again next year. Watch my smoke!"

Twins Born to Grandson Of Original Siamese Twin

MT. AIRY, N. C., March 13 (AP)—Twin great-grandsons of the original Siamese twins of world-wide fame entered their third day of life today in a farm house near White Plains, a village near here.

Dr. R. J. Lovill, the attending physician, said they were normal and weighed about six pounds each.

The father, Robert Bunker, is a grandson of one of the original twins, Chang and Eng, who were buried in a churchyard at White Plains. The mother, whose condition the physician pronounced good, is a native of this section.

Chang and Eng traveled over the world in the 19th century and appeared before the crowned heads of Europe, all of whom marveled at the men, joined together by a thick mass of tissue.

The original twins traveled with P. T. Barnum's Circus, became moderately wealthy and later retired to a farm near here, and married sisters. They have a number of descendants.

Chang and Eng got along pretty well, their friends used to say, but occasionally had disagreements and sometimes went for long periods without speaking to each other.

They died within a few hours of each other.

Good Pigeon Story, but---

The things you have to put up with:

A woman in Philadelphia found a carrier pigeon, its wing and leg broken, dying in her yard. She called an agent of the Pennsylvania Society for Prevention of Cruelty to Animals and it was then announced that the pigeon was a "Navy carrier pigeon carrying a code message from the submarine base at Boston, Mass."

The only troubles with the story: The Boston navy yard has sent out no code message tied to the leg of a pigeon—recently.

There is no submarine base at Boston.

The Navy has no carrier pigeons.

Britain Cuts Off Drivers' Extra Gas Allowance

LONDON, March 13 (AP)—Automobile owners who have been getting an extra supply of gasoline because they helped transport fellow workers to and from places of employment will have to get along on the regular allotments after this month.

Termination of the extra allowance, which was authorized last November as a winter boon to workers, was announced today by the government.

U. S. May Deport Valtin On Best Seller Evidence

WASHINGTON, March 13 (AP)—Immigration officials, it was learned today, have begun an investigation of Jan Valtin, author of the current best seller, "Out of the Night."

The author's own statements, a Justice Department official said, were the basis on which the first step in deportation proceedings was taken.

Valtin, who acknowledges the name he uses is a literary pseudonym, described in his book his alleged experiences first as a Communist agitator in his native Germany, then as a Gestapo agent and later as an agitator who sought overthrow of the government in the United States. He told also of entangling the country illegally and of reversing his belief in Communism.

Solely on the basis of statements in his book, an official said, there appeared to be several counts on which he could be deported—illegal entry, criminal record and former membership in an organization advocating overthrow of the government.

Under the alien registration law, Valtin could be deported as a former Communist even though he has since renounced the party. His admitted criminal record, the official pointed out, would preclude leniency.

If the Justice Department should decide Valtin should be deported, it would be confronted with the problem of where and how to send him—a situation which exists with reference to some 6000 aliens now under deportation warrants.

The department has been studying this particular problem for months and is understood to be about to suggest legislation to solve it.

Paintings Damaged In Beacon Hill Fire

Damage to paintings and other property in the fire-swept studio apartment of Miss Frances Hayward in Chestnut at., Beacon Hill, was estimated by fire officials at $1500 today.

The blaze was believed to have started in a chimney and climbed to the fourth-floor studio. Occupants gathered in the first-floor lobby until the fire was extinguished.

CANAL SURVEY PLANNED IN SHIP CRASH

While plans were being rushed today to free the grounded Merchants & Miners freighter Kent from a rocky ledge in Buzzards Bay today, federal officials revealed they plan an intensive examination of the area in which three ships have gone aground in the past month.

That the Cape Cod Canal now constitutes a menace to shipping if its channel has been disturbed by upheavals from recent earthquakes was seen as a possibility behind the federal investigation.

NO LONGER SEEN

Meanwhile the Kent appears in no immediate danger, although the rocky crage have pierced a hole in its bottom.

Coast guardsmen reached the ship, lying off Little Gull Island near Cuttyhunk, and were assured the crew was in no danger at present. The cutter Tahoe returned to New Bedford after laying to beside the ship for several hours.

Plans to refloat the big ship, scheduled to be turned over to the Army at Norfolk today, will be worked out by R. T. Merrill, vice-president and general manager of the line, when he arrives at the scene from Baltimore. He will confer with the Kent's skipper, Capt. William J. Hudgins, and make a preliminary survey of the damage.

CANAL TO BE STUDIED

Decision to study the canal's channel and its approaches was announced by Capt. Charles M. Lyons, supervising inspector of the United States Bureau of Marine Inspection and Navigation at Boston. The study will be made as soon as the Kent has been floated and removed to drydock.

The big freighter ran aground at low tide yesterday after leaving Boston on her regular run to Norfolk, Va.

Only a few days ago, the cruise ship President Hayes came to grief a short distance away, and before that the Norwegian freighter Ellin K. was badly damaged when it ran aground in the vicinity.

B. U. DEGREES GIVEN TO 8 JOURNALISTS

President Daniel L. Marsh of Boston University, in awarding honorary degrees today to eight leading journalists of the United States, warned that American freedom of the press and freedom of speech must be upheld and guarded.

"History has shown," he declared, "that freedom of assembly, freedom of the press, freedom of the pulpit and school, stand together or fall together. Dissemination of truthful news is essential to the functioning of democracy."

"The most alarming perversion of freedom of the press is not made by the press itself, but comes with the control of the press by government. In a dictatorship the firing squad and concentration camps put the quietus upon freedom of speech and of the press."

The eight degrees were conferred at convocation exercises of the 11th annual Founders' Day, commemorating the freedom of the press in America. The recipients and degrees they received were:

Henry Robinson Luce of Stamford, Ct., magazine editor and publisher, doctor of letters; Prof. Z. Chafetz, Jr., of Harvard, and author of "Freedom of Speech," doctor of civil law; Dr. Lewis O. Hartman of Newton, editor of Zion's Herald, doctor of humanities; Arthur T. Robb of New York, editor of Editor and Publisher magazine, doctor of letters; Prof. James L. Mott, University of Iowa School of Journalism, doctor of humanities; Herbert Sebastian Agar of Louisville, Ky., editor, doctor of laws; John Cowles, editor of Des Moines, Ia., doctor of laws; Joy Elmer Morgan of Washington, D. C., editor of "Journal of Education," doctor of science in education.

Tent Over River Keeps Dam Dry

ENUNCLAW, Wash., March 13 (AP)—A huge tent, more than big enough to cover a football field, is being erected across the White river chasm near here to keep a dam dry.

A vast spider web of cables was reared today to hoist the covering, 196 by 328 feet, up the canyon walls.

The tent will act as an umbrella over Mud mountain dam, which the government is erecting as a flood control project across the ravaging "river nobody wants."

Main job of the tent will be to keep rain off the "oven-baked" dirt after it is prepared for packing into the impervious core of the rock-fill barrier.

NAZIS CLAIM LIVERPOOL IS LAID IN RUIN

night record by shooting down at least nine German bombers last night in a "large scale" attack centered on Merseyside, important shipping area concentrated at Liverpool.

A communique appeared to hint at a new defensive weapon in stating that the German bombers were harassed by fighters, anti-aircraft guns and "other devices" which were described as "very active."

German raiders over London last night and early today were greeted by a thunderous barrage unlike anything previously heard from the regular anti-aircraft weapons.

The RAF's score was further increased when it was officially announced today that "two enemy aircraft Messerschmitt 109's were shot down near the southeast coast" in a dawn encounter.

MANY TOWNS RAIDED

Dover reported the rumble of heavy explosives from the direction of the French coast late this morning, indicating British bombers possibly were attacking German-occupied territory again.

The Luftwaffe took advantage of a full moon and clear weather to range widely over England, and in addition to Liverpool, struck at London, towns in the midlands, East Anglia and the southwest and southeast.

RAIDERS SHOT DOWN

Twin-engined Bristol Beautifliers were credited with two, a Hurricane with one and Defiants of a squadron said to have bagged 37 German planes in one day over Dunkirk without loss were credited with two more.

London had three alarms during the night. Light damage and few casualties were reported in the capital.

Two crewmen of downed German bombers were reported captured, one surrendering to a waiting cottager when he parachuted to earth.

200 NAZI PLANES

It was estimated that about 200 German planes were over England during the night.

Informed sources said the British were prepared to fill the skies over England with night fighting planes.

Raiders who attacked the Liverpool area were said to have been kept at "terrific height" by the British defense. They dropped numerous flares and hundreds of incendiaries and high explosive bombs, observers declared. In parts of the city, burned out bombs were found in nearly every street.

Casualties were reported to be "not unduly heavy," however, and transportation facilities this morning were described as normal.

One heavy bomb lodged on the roof of a Merseyside school and 250 persons were removed from an adjoining shelter. The bomb exploded a short time later, bringing down the school and nearby property. Policemen and wardens assigned there were missing.

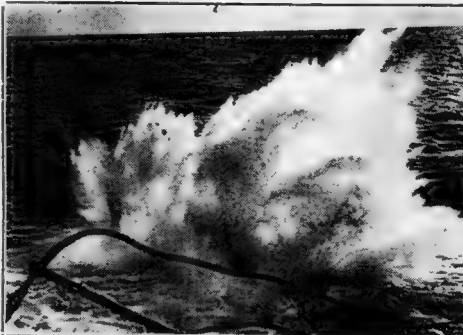

Several auxiliary fire watchers were killed when a heavy bomb burst in the center of a fire. A number of persons were trapped in the wreckage of a tenement district.

British Bomb Hits U. S. Envoy's Home

NEW YORK, March 13 (AP)—

The National Broadcasting Co. reported from Berlin today that a British incendiary bomb fell last night on the roof of an apartment where an official of the United States embassy resides.

He was not injured and the NBC report did not identify him.

BIGGEST RAID SETS FIRES IN BERLIN AREAS

Action and carried very heavy bombs.

These may have included new four-motored American-made bombers which have been flown across the Atlantic by the British. —Editor's note.

SHIPYARDS BOMBED

The fires started in Berlin were said to have been "especially numerous" in the neighborhood of railway yards.

At Hamburg, Europe's greatest port, the German naval shipyards and industrial district "received special attention."

One Nazi fighter was reported destroyed over Germany while attempting to intercept the RAF attackers.

Schipol airdrome, near Amsterdam, was also attacked, along with other targets in northwest Germany and the low countries.

Large fires were reported started among docks at Boulogne, one of the Nazi-held "invasion ports" on the French channel coast.

A large supply ship at anchor in the Netherlands harbor of IJmuiden and other vessels at Ostend and an airdrome in Norway were among the RAF's targets.

Berlin Admits British Bombs Kill 16 There

By PIERRE J. HUSS

International News Service Correspondent

BERLIN, March 13—Killing 16 persons and injuring 37, RAF planes attacked Berlin during the night and also bombed the German seaports of Hamburg and Bremen, the German high command announced today.

Thirteen British planes were said by the high command to have been shot down, 10 of them in the attacks on Berlin, Hamburg and Bremen.

"Only residence sections, hospitals and a church" were listed as damaged. Military and industrial objectives escaped for the most part, it was declared. The many fires were extinguished quickly and night fighters and anti-aircraft guns often forced the British to dump their bombs prematurely, the Germans said.

German authorities charged that the British raids on Berlin were aimed chiefly at residential districts of the capital.

The attack on Berlin effectively dispelled any illusions of Berlin residents that Britain's RAF is no longer able to penetrate to their capital.

The attack, under bright moonlight, produced a spectacle of bursting anti-aircraft shells, plummeting planes and occasional heavy bomb explosions.

I watched the attack from a rooftop, where the moonlight was so bright it was possible to read a newspaper.

When the first waves of British planes appeared they drew such a terrific anti-aircraft barrage that the full face of the moon soon floated behind white puffs of smoke from bursting anti-aircraft shells.

At watched I could see occasional groups of RAF planes, flying at a tremendous height as they ducked through the ground fire. The British planes dropped numerous flares, and it appeared they were taking photographs.

Capital Debates 5 P. C. Wage Tax

An increase in surtaxes on individual incomes, adding that it did not seem desirable, because of the relatively small amount of revenue involved, to make any material changes in excise levies.

Finance committee members agreed generally that the President's request to Congress yesterday for $7,000,000,000 in direct appropriations for aid to Britain and other countries had complicated the already complex tax picture.

Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau told the Senate committee recently the 1942 budget submitted to Congress indicated an over-all expenditure of $28,500,000,000 for national defense, which would result in combined deficit for the 1941 and 1942 fiscal years of $15,400,000,000. This was without reference to the $7,000,000,000 aid fund.

9,000,000 Tons Sunk, Nazis Say

BERLIN, March 13 (AP)—The authoritative Commentary Dienst aus Deutschland asserted today that since the beginning of the war German armed forces have sunk more than 9,000,000 tons of British shipping space.

The service, which reflects government opinion, said the total British tonnage launched in 1938 and 1939 did not reach the total sunk by the Germans in the four months of "the winter pause."

The British long have maintained that German figures on British losses have been exaggerated, sometimes as much as 100 per cent.

An Associated Press tabulation of all ships sunk since the war began, gathered independently and listed by name, shows that 1384 vessels of a total tonnage of 5,348,218 have been destroyed. These figures include British and Allied ships, Axis and neutral.

British Listing Bares New Secret Army Branch

LONDON, March 13 (INS)—A new, secret branch of the British army was revealed for the first time today with publication by the London Gazette of names of 20 cadets promoted to the rank of lieutenant in a "reconnaissance corps." New Parley Held in N. Y. Bus Strike

NEW YORK, March 13 (AP)—Labor and company officials resumed negotiations today with a state mediator striving to obtain a settlement "as soon as possible" of the four-day-old bus strike which has tied up 95 per cent of Manhattan's cheap surface transportation.

Arthur S. Meyer, chairman of the State Mediation Board, who flew here from Miami, Fla., conferred with Mayor LaGuardia before he met with representatives of the two bus firms and the striking Transport Workers' Union (CIO).

"I will try to settle it as soon as possible," said Meyer. "I don't know whether it can be settled today, in two or three days—or at all. It's rather not prophetic."

The bus companies—the Fifth Avenue Coach Co. and the New York City Omnibus Corp.—were represented by a committee of three, headed by John A. Ritchie, board chairman of the two firms.

Michael J. Quill, international president of the union, headed a committee of five, which was accompanied by a delegation of 10 union members.

Neither commented as the meeting began, with the "first objective" as Meyer expressed it of "getting the buses rolling."

At issue were union demands for a 23 per cent wage increase, a reduction from 51 to 48 working hours in a six-day week, and three weeks' annual vacation in place of two.

PLAN FOR DEFENSE STRIKE BOARD OUTLINED TO F. D.

By the Associated Press

A specific recommendation for a mediation board to handle labor problems related to defense production was laid before President Roosevelt today by Secretary Perkins and the directors of the Office for Production Management, William S. Knudsen and Sidney Hillman.

Miss Perkins told reporters afterward that the idea of such a board was taking "definite" shape. Hillman said several propositions were under consideration but that the conference had not touched on names of prospective board members.

"Several things were discussed, but what eventually will materialize is up to the President," Hillman said. "We agreed on one plan which we presented to him."

On Capitol Hill Chairman Vinson (D.) of Georgia, of the House naval committee asserted that strikes in defense industries had cost enough man hours to build 325 modern bombers.

URGES QUICK ACTION

Vinson, appearing before the judiciary committee investigating defense labor problems, advocated quick congressional approval of legislation to eliminate work stoppages.

He spoke in support of bills to create machinery for adjustment of labor disputes and to permit men to work without being compelled to join labor unions.

Another major development today, in New York, was rejection by the nation's soft coal operators of CIO union demands for a blanket $1-a-day wage increase. The operators proposed that the present contract, which covers 450,000 miners, be extended another two years.

The present contract, expiring March 31, provides $6 a day for miners in the North and $5.60 in the South.

BIG PLANTS IDLE

The big Aluminum Company of America plant at Edgewater, N. J., which had been operating seven days a week on aluminum parts, was still by a strike yesterday. Three thousand workers were affected. CIO union leaders contended the company had violated Sunday and holiday overtime pay provisions.

Also idle was the Labells works of the Crucible Steel Co. at Pittsburgh. Officials of the company, which employs about 900 men, declared CIO steel workers had called an "unauthorized strike." Union headquarters declined to comment. The firm has defense orders for small arms parts.

Two other strikes of metal workers were in progress at Bridgeville, Pa.

Four hundred employees of the Vanadium Corp. walked out four weeks ago in protest, they said, to the company's action in ignoring unemployed union members in hiring plant guards.

At the Universal-Cyclops Steel Co., 1500 men have been out since Feb. 20, claiming their wages were 30 per cent under the rate paid by other similar concerns.

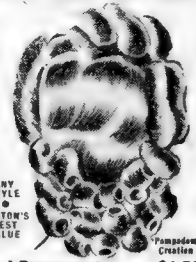

U. S. OPENS PROBE

At Milwaukee, where a CIO-led strike against the Allis Chalmers Manufacturing Co. was in its eighth week, John R. Steelman, chief of the U. S. conciliation service, planned conferences with union and company officials. The strike has held up work on $45,000,000 in defense orders.

Three dozen union carpenters ceased work on buildings at a $5,000,000 army air corps base near Everett, Wash., yesterday in protest to delivery of lumber from a mill which A. F. of L. officials called "unfair."

Another strike remained in progress at the J. G. Brill Co. plant in Philadelphia, which has orders for artillery mounts. CIO employees walked out after negotiations for a new wage agreement collapsed.

IL DUCE SEES HIS FRANTIC DRIVE BOGGED

ATHENS, March 13 (AP)—Dispatches from the Albanian front today said the large scale offensive ordered by Premier Mussolini himself from field headquarters had failed before powerful Greek resistance.

An earlier report said Mussolini had given his generals until Saturday to "do something."

The Italians, dispatches from the front said, have been unable to gain a single inch of ground and in the last six days their losses unofficially have been placed at more than 10,000, including 2000 dead.

These figures do not cover the 3500 prisoners listed by the Greeks.

A Greek spokesman said captured
Premier Mussolini has been in Albania almost a week to bolster the morale of his troops and himself had ordered the recent ferocious series of attacks on the central front, attacks which the Greeks reported smashed over a 12-mile sector in four days of bloody fighting.

The captives, the spokesman added, said Mussolini had told "his generals he would be leaving Saturday, by which date he expects they will do something." The penalty of failure was not given.

Greek Army circles said the accelerated attacks—described as the heaviest of the war and apparently centered around the vital Tepeleni area—cost the Italians heavily in manpower. The spokesman said the battlefield was strewn with dead and wounded Fascist soldiers.

(The Albanian fighting has centered around Tepeleni since the Greeks captured the nearby town of Kilsura Jan. 10. The town commands a cross road, one fork of which goes to the Port of Valona while the second leads to Berat, heart of the Albanian oil fields—Editor's note.)

Stewardesses Exercise to Shed Weight

Here's How Leota Norvet Keeps Under 120 Pounds

Airline Girls Beat Poundage

Airline stewardesses in common with girls of other professions, are faced with the problem of keeping their weight under control.

The problem of the stewardess, however, is more complex than that of the secretary, nurse or buyer, whose hours are relatively the same each day and who can plan on periodic visits to a health center for exercise. For instance, flight assignments for stewardesses of American Airlines, Inc., vary from day to day making appointments at a gymnasium impractical.

The girls solve this problem by going through their exercises at home utilizing chairbacks, bedsteads, kitchen tables, etc., as substitutes for equipment available in gymnasiums. The accompanying pictures show how Leota Norvet and Pauline Kanable, stewardesses on American's Boston-New York route, exercise in their Back Bay apartment.

Stewardesses must keep their weight below 120 pounds and rigid diet, 224 pictures, as any health-harming diet would be disclosed in the periodic physical examination the company flight surgeon gives each stewardess. Leota and Pauline supplement their indoor exercises with long hikes on their days off.

Girls aspiring to be stewardesses must be registered nurses, between 21 and 26 years of age, between 5 feet and 5 feet 6 inches tall and have pleasant personalities.

BOSTON is waking up and facing the fact that we are living in the lively Machine Age.

Passage of City Councillor Maurice Sullivan's intelligent anti-noise ordinance indicates this.

Like New York and other enterprising cities, we are beginning to realize that customs which were satisfactory in the period of carriages, horse cars and melodeons will not do today.

So now when a thoughtless or deliberately hateful person blows his automobile horn needlessly loud and long in the vicinity of hospitals, schools and churches he will pay a fine or make the acquaintance of a jail cell.

Similar treatment awaits such pests and public nuisances as ear-splitting radio and phonograph players, early morning saxophone "artists," and howling dog keepers.

FIDO PLAYS PIANO
But No More at 3 a. m.

Of course, the success of the new legislation depends to a very large extent on the Police Department and on how well its officers and men do their duty.

But if patrolmen are as vigilant and resourceful in this matter as they have been in hanging tags on parked cars, Boston should very soon enjoy the distinction of being the quietest city in the whole United States.

HIGHWAY FATALITIES continue to increase in Massachusetts in spite of the efforts of the Registry of Motor Vehicles and police departments to prevent them.

Automobile mishaps caused twenty-five deaths last week. Three of the victims were children.

In fact, it was the worst fatal accident record for any corresponding week in the Commonwealth's history.

Furthermore, total deaths to date this year are one hundred and thirteen, as compared with ninety-four for the same period a year ago.

With Spring approaching and more cars appearing on the State's roads, the probability of an even greater loss of life seems likely.

How great depends on how successfully patrolmen enforce the law and how well motorists obey it.

Particularly should highways leading to Camp Devens and Camp Edwards be patrolled because the Summer will see these thoroughfares taxed to the limit, and the many who use them ought not to be endangered by the recklessness of a few.

ON BEACON HILL legislators are still delaying action on Representative Leslie B. Cutler's bill to make blood tests obligatory for all persons contemplating matrimony in this State.

WHY?

Do not our law-makers want Massachusetts to be as progressive as the twenty other States which have adopted similar legislation in recent years?

It should interest these men and women to know that 6 per cent of the young men rejected by the Army since the adoption of Selective Service were sent home because they had social diseases.

It should also interest Senators and Representatives to learn that State records disclose the existence of more than 2000 KNOWN cases of an especially contagious and dangerous malady in this Commonwealth.

Mrs. Cutler's proposal does not prevent anyone's marrying.

It merely requires prospective brides and bridegrooms to undergo physical examinations and to obtain doctors' certificates that they are free from infection.

Such a law may not be able to stamp out all the social diseases which have afflicted mankind from the dawn of history.

But it will encourage attention to health BEFORE marriage and discourage the harmful combination of parental ignorance and carelessness which has doomed countless thousands of babies to insanity, imbecility, deformity and early death.

SUPPOSE the average man could be persuaded to become as interested in his personal appearance as the average woman is in hers. Say he could be persuaded to become only half as interested. Think what it would do for business. A good start on such a campaign would be a series of dances where the girls did the asking for the next dance. As at Leap Year dances. Could also be similar hay-rides, theater parties, etc. The men not asked to dance or uninvited to hay-rides would begin to worry and wonder what was the matter with them. To meet this situation the sellers of articles and preparations designed to improve the appearance could have advertisements headed: "Mister, Why Are You a Wall Flower," "Always the Best Man But Never the Groom," "Why Does She Always Say: 'I'm Sorry But I Have Another Engagement,'" "He's All Alone by a Telephone That Never Rings," etc. Then think what it would mean if men became interested in hats as women are and started buying a new hat every week.

I forget who played "Experience." It was Ben Franklin who said: "Experience keeps a dear school, yet fools will learn in no other" . . . Werner Jannsen, Symphony orchestra leader. His father was the famous Manhattan restaurateur whose slogan was "Jannsen Wants to See You." Mrs. Werner Jannsen is Ann Harding, of the films.

BETTER DAYS: At Santa Anita on March 8 the proud and courageous horse, Moland, was cheered when he broke the track record for a mile and a half. In the next race, a claiming event, there ran a lowly selling plater named Chasar. This ancient animal has seen much better days. Once a stake horse, he holds the world's record for a mile and seventy yards. But shed no tears for Chasar because of his present situation. Race horses love to race. They don't care for the quiet life of the pasture. And every now and then good, old Chasar, still packing plenty of vigor, comes stoutly charging down the stretch to shove his aged frame under the wire a winner.

Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt

GOLDEN BEACH, Fla., Wednesday.—The news that the leasehold bill was signed came over the radio, and a few minutes later we heard that certain supplies were already gathered on the dock ready for shipment.

There is a column written by Mr. H. Bond Ellis in the morning paper, which I read down here as I drink my coffee under a palm tree that looks out over the ocean. Today, Mr. Bliss stresses the importance of this moment when the great English speaking nations are joining their strength in a supreme effort to save the kind of life which seems important to them.

I know, for instance, that democracy in this country is not perfect.

But in spite of that, I know that I have a better chance to accomplish this in this country with our present form of government, than I would have in any of the totalitarian countries today.

WHILE I am talking about improvements which I would like to see come about, I should like to state the way I feel about labor organizations.

To me, organization for labor seems necessary because it is the only protection that the worker has when he feels that he is not receiving just returns for his labor, or that he is working under conditions which he can not accept as fair.

I also feel that dealing with organized labor should benefit the employer and make for better mutual understanding.

Believing in this principle, however, does not mean that I think the decisions made by groups of workmen or their leaders are always correct.

I do not expect from them infallibility and superhuman qualities, any more than I do from groups of employers, or from politicians or from government officials.

THERE have been and are abuses in the labor movement, and I think we should fight them. The people who uncover these abuses and speak fearlessly about them, show courage and perform a civic duty.

A union organization fails in its full duty when it loses the ideal which lies back of all unionization. This ideal, it seems to me, is an unselfish interest in those who are not as strong as others in their ability to defend themselves, and in a willingness to suffer to obtain for others the rights you may have already achieved for yourself.

I do not believe that every man and woman should be forced to join a union.

I do believe the right to explain the principles lying back of labor unions should be safeguarded, that every workman should be free to listen to the plea of organization without fear of hindrance or of evil circumstances, and that he should have the right to join with his fellows in a union if he feels it will help others and, incidentally, himself.

SAM HARRIS JOKES DESPITE PAIN

By Leonard Lyons

NEW YORK, March 13—Sam Harris, the beloved producer who was operated upon last week, returned to consciousness after he was wheeled from the operating room. He turned to the surgeon, smiled feebly and asked: "How was my opening, doc?" . . . The startled doctor didn't quite understand Harris' use of theatrical terms. And so the producer nodded toward the corner where the surgeon's colleagues, who had assisted in the operation, were standing. "As usual," said Harris, "an awful lot depends on what the critics say" . . . A committee now is being formed in Washington, to offset the Vichy government's threat to use its warships for the purpose of conveying the food France needs and fight the British blockade, if necessary. The committee will propose that the problem be settled by swapping food, in exchange for those warships—to be returned after the war . . . "Put" Humphries flattened two men at El Morocco's bar when they patted Lenore Lemmon, the debutante, in a manner to which she objected . . . Leon Henderson's elevation to the higher posts in the government was aided by the insistence of Donald Nelson that Henderson's invaluable work be recognized . . . The barracks at Wright Field are so overcrowded that even Elliott Roosevelt, who is stationed there, has been unable to get accommodations . . .

BOB CASEY, veteran correspondent who has been covering the war for the New York Post and Chicago Daily News, was reluctant, at first, to leave London; but then, when he discovered that it was difficult to book passage to Cairo, he was determined to get there. He made due application with the Admiralty, but could get no passage. He tried the various government departments, without avail . . . The exasperated reporter then decided upon a new measure. He sent a cable to his old friend and publisher of his paper, Secretary of the Navy Knox. It read: "Dear Boss—If they run the rest of the war the way they run the Admiralty, you're backing the wrong horse" . . . Before that cable was received in Washington, the British Admiralty supplied passage for Casey to Cairo.

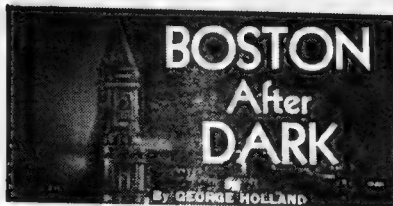

JOHN BARRYMORE was asked why he cannot memorize the lines of the script, when he makes a picture, and why it's necessary for the words to be written on a large blackboard, so that he can read them for each scene . . . "I have memorized, in my lifetime, the glorious works of Shakespeare, Sir James Barrie and Ibsen," Barrymore explained. "And so I refuse to clutter my mind by committing to memory the worthless drivel written by the high-priced peasants who call themselves the writers of Hollywood."

GOODMAN AND JANE ACE, of the Easy Aces radio show went to a Chicago cafe to watch the floor show. Jane felt ill, and Ace asked the waiter to bring some water. "You didn't order any food," answered the waiter . . . "I'm paying a cover charge here," Ace told him. "At least I should be able to get a glass of water for that" . . . The waiter brought his captain. Ace repeated his request for some water . . . "It's not the waiter's fault," the captain assured. "After all you didn't order any food . . . Mrs. Ace became faint, and started to keel over. "Okay, okay. A glass of water for my wife," her husband ordered, "and I'll have a sandwich."

JAMES SEELY is the 70-year-old veteran, who performs so ably in "Flight to the West." A few weeks ago his wife died—but Seely adhered to the tradition of the theater and didn't miss a performance . . . Last Sunday, during the first act, Seely was stricken with an attack. He gasped his lines. During an audience-laugh, Hugh Marlowe whispered a suggestion that the curtain be brought down. The veteran shook his head, finished the first act—and collapsed . . . A back-stage consultation was held, and the stage manager agreed to substitute for the balance of the performance. "But how," asked Marlowe, "can you explain your sudden appearance? We're supposed to be on a Clipper, flying the Atlantic. All the passengers were accounted for in the opening scene" . . . "That's no problem," said the stage manager—walked on-stage, and told the audience. "Mr. Seely is ill. His understudy will now take over his part."

EXCLUSIVE: Another bridge to span the Cape Cod canal is in blueprint . . . Of less majestic proportion than the two huge (and beautiful) arches which now bridge the Big Ditch of Massachusetts, the new structure will be built under Army supervision . . . The supervision, moreover, will be maintained when the span is completed . . . One terminus will connect with an artery direct to Camp Edwards.

FINAL ARRANGEMENTS for the Jimmy Roosevelt-Romelle Schneider marriage (including the setting of the date) await an important ecclesiastical decision . . . The President's son has agreed to be married under the faith of his intended bride, which differs from his . . . But because he is the son of the head of a state, jurisdiction does not rest with the high church dignitary to whom the case first was presented . . . It must be decided by the Supreme Head of the bride-to-be's faith . . . (Not more than a dozen persons are supposed to be acquainted with this development of the much-talked-about romance).

THE AFFECTION IN WHICH Sam H. Harris, the producer, is held along Broadway is reflected by visiting showmen to Boston . . . Invariably, they first talk about the serious illness of the producer of "Lady in the Dark," and so many other great successes . . . Mr. Harris was operated on Thursday at Good Samaritan Hospital, Palm Beach . . . The gravity of his condition has caused two New York specialists to fly South for consultation with the attending surgeons.

THE MAYFAIR'S NEW SHOW is something the management can use in claiming membership to the local pointers-with-pride . . . Henry Armetta and a lady assistant identified only as "G. The movie comedian is a newcomer to the cabaret circuit, and before his premiere last night he had played only one nightclub engagement.

AS ALWAYS, MR. BOLLERO scores most gratifyingly with his original mimicry of a drunk with a Slavic dialect . . . This lad hails from Malden . . . He was a young sensation a few seasons ago when the Boston nightclubs first began bidding for his services . . . There was a vaudeville maxim in the old days, "Change Your Act."

THE SLOGAN WAS accepted so generally, and became such a byword, that Victor Moore and his wife, Emma Littlefield, tramped the country for years with a comedy dialogue known as "Change Your Act." Mr. Bollero doesn't.

IT WOULD SEEM THAT the young man has gone as far as he can in the limited field of impersonation, and if the economic aspect of his case is not too demanding, it would be wise for him to haunt the theatrical offices until he gets either a part in a play, or a shot at pictures. We believe he would be successful in either medium. Perhaps as successful as Jules Garfield.

IT MIGHT HOWEVER, be wise for Mr. Bollero to become Mark Ballard, or Marc Something-other-than-Bollero . . . The name makes him sound like a song by Ravel, or a South American dancer .

I SUPPOSE, THOUGH, we should consult Rep. Francis X. "True Name" Coyne before advancing a suggestion such as this.

THE HIGHLIGHT of the Mayfair's new show is an adagio team, Maurice and Betty Whalen . . . If they are not the best adagio dancers in the business—which Maestro Lew Bonick believes them to be, they at least are the best-looking adagio dancers we have seen . . . The Whalens are young, and resemble human beings instead of Mr. and Mrs. Atlas or Two Bunches of Muscles.

HIS ROLE AS ROMEO A BIG SURPRISE

By Louella O. Parsons

Wallace Beery

HOLLYWOOD, March 13 (INS)—Nobody knew that Wallace Beery was playing a Romeo until his case came up in court and he admitted that he would probably marry Mrs. Loren Robinson, wealthy widow.

Wally carried the torch for his former wife, Mrs. Rita Feyt, for so long no one suspected he was courting another woman until the story was made public.

Out at Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer today they told me that "Jackass Mail," a new story by C. Gardner Sullivan, had just been bought for Wally and Marjorie Main. Doesn't that combine a husband and ready money?

They made "Wally" together and it got notices from such writers as Damon Runyon and other columnists who ordinarily do not write about the movies.

"Jackass Mail" by C. Gardner Sullivan is the next movie intended for Wally and Margie. The picture will be produced by John Considine Jr., and it is the story of the 49er days when mail was delivered by donkeys.

IDA LUPINO

were working so their wives came without them; Michele Morgan, Raquel Torres and others stopped in.

That was Alene Brandies at the Wilshire Bowl with Edgar Bergen; Gene Weiner, Lillian Roth's pugilistic husband, with a pretty nurse at Victor's in Beverly Hills. He says all his troubles have made him ill and the nurse is taking care of him.

Mary Beth Hughes at the Earl Carroll Theater with John Aldridge, Kay's brother.

JACK SHERRILL, the agent who first had Deanna Durbin under contract, has tied up Margaret Sharp, the secretary government girl whose layout in a current magazine as the prettiest girl in Washington has created much interest in Hollywood.

Ivan Goff, Kay Francis' favorite boy friend, in collaboration with Ulrich Steindorff, Warner writer, wrote a story called "Government Girl" last Christmas. At that time they tried to sell it without results.

Now Para is bidding for it with the idea of using the Sharp girl, who of course, will have to be groomed for acting since looks these days in the movies count for nothing without ability.

SOME TIME AGO Sam Goldwyn wired permission to David Niven, now serving in the British army, to make a picture in England. Niven had an offer on condition he could get special leave from the army and it is most interesting that Goldwyn has received a letter which says, "The army has given special permission for me to have special leave to shoot the picture, when it is ready so I should be making faces at myself again in about six weeks."

But here's the amusing part: David's contract has an invasion clause which reads: "Work on the picture will be suspended while any invasion attempt is being made, in order that David Niven may return to his regiment. Work will be resumed immediately the attempt has failed."

Isn't that like the British courage?

I HEARD from a most reliable source that Al Jolson's hit play "Hold On to Your Hat," goes to Mayfair productions with a Universal release. A package deal has been made in which Eddie Cantor plays the Jolson role, Martha Raye the character she created on the stage with Abbott and Costello doing their special comedy routine.

Jules Levey is set to produce this little number. Al Jolson, being a very smart business man, is keeping a percentage for himself so that really not a lot of money was paid down for this play.

Myrna Deane Heads Charmers In New Globe Burlesque Bill

Blonde and statuesque Myrna Deane is the star of the new travelling burlesque show which comes to the Globe Theater tomorrow for a week's stay.

If you can believe her press agent, Myrna's nickname is Smyrna, "partly because she does not care a fig for dates, except with her admiring audiences collectively, but more so because she hails from the land of the Nile."

This modern Cleopatra has included among her company of 70 such charmers as Monya Delray, Gloria Gaulle and Bebe Barrison. The 30 Bernardolls will introduce a number of new dance ensemble specialties, the most diverting the "Sultana Roll."

Jack Greenman and his gang are expected to introduce some fresh comedy to the new show. Among the latter will be Jack Coyle, Harry Ryan and Irving Benson.

Vaudeville's representatives will number the Dancing Danubies, Bruce Norman and Marion Young, Fiddler and Faddler and many others.

The film features will be "Maryland," with Brenda Joyce, Walter Brennan and John Payne, and "The Lost Patrol," co-starring Boris Karloff and Victor McLaglen.

'COME LIVE WITH ME' OPENS ON LOEW'S TWIN SCREENS TODAY

Stewart, Hedy Lamarr Co-Star

A California landmark bearing the date 1859 makes its screen debut in "Come Live With Me," co-starring James Stewart and Hedy Lamarr, which opens today on Loew's State and Orpheum screens.

The landmark is an ancient stage coach inn, erected on Ventura blvd. during the days of the early West and the padres.

Originally a spot where the stage riders could change horses and the padres could stop on their travels, the inn now dispenses fried chicken and 85-cent dinners, but in spite of this fact it is steeped in history and around its walls hang many relics of the early days of California.

Interestingly enough, the spot was discovered by Director Clarence Brown when he was searching for just such a spot to fulfill the requirements of his script. Located on the road to his home, he dropped in to investigate and discovered that it contained everything that he sought.

As a result, the company moved from the studio to the ancient landmark for an entire day of shooting.

"Come Live With Me" is the first film to co-star Stewart and Miss Lamarr, and is the story of a beautiful Austrian refugee who married a penniless young author in an effort to obtain a quota number and remain in the United States.

The supporting cast includes Ian Hunter, Verree Teasdale, Donald Meek, Barton MacLane, Edward Ashley, Ann Codee, King Baggot and Mrs. Adeline de Walt Reynolds, 80 years old, who makes her screen debut as Stewart's grandmother.

Associate film on the program is the spectacular cavalcade of thrills, "The Land of Liberty," featuring 139 of Hollywood's greatest stars in this visual history of America. This picture has been hailed as the film industry's greatest contribution.

HEDY LAMARR, who makes a proposal of marriage to James Stewart in "Come Live With Me," is seen here taking dictation from him in their first co-starring picture which is now showing on Loew's State and Orpheum screens.

Parisian Screen Star's Film Now in 4th Week at Trans-Lux

Fascinating minx is the Parisian screen favorite Danielle Darrieux in "The Virgin Bride," comedy running hilariously into a fourth week at the Trans-Lux. Equally popular is the other star on the biggest double bill in Trans-Lux history, this being Rex Harrison, hero of the famous "Night Train" picture. At the Trans-Lux this great London film favorite is appearing in "School for Husbands," medley of love and laughter, with June Clyde is the cute blonde heroine.

Miss Darrieux, who was so beloved in the "Mayerling" film, in which she starred with Charles Boyer, is the comedienne running wild in "Virgin Bride," throwing men over right and left, experiencing a perfectly solid and substantial husband and falling in love with the spurned spouse's son by a former marriage.

Seats on Sale Today For 'Blossom Time'

Seats go on sale at Shubert Theater box office today for "Blossom Time," one of the most popular operettas ever presented on the American stage, which opens a limited engagement there on Monday evening.

Everett Marshall, well-known American baritone, has the starring role in the Romberg work. The advance sale is said to exceed all expectations.

Be an Expert Cookie Baker

By MARTHA LEE

IF YOUR luck seems to fail when baking cookies don't blame the recipe until you are sure that everything else is under control. It might be that either the range or the pans are to blame.

Goodness knows how much food is wasted because of the range. Believe it or not, even-browning or even-browning is impossible in an oven that is not level. Floors being what they are when houses settle, better have your range checked and get it levelled, if necessary.

Modern ranges have heat regulators that maintain temperatures accurately. This is important because without a regulator heat is apt to climb so quickly that foods get dry and hang or badly scorched. New type gas ranges have automatic oven lighting and what a convenience. Just turn on the oven cock and the burner lights. No matches are needed and it's absolutely safe. The efficiency of these ranges is seen in the speed with which baking temperature is reached.

Pans cause poor cookies, too. Use baking sheets with very low or no sides, and of a size to allow at least an inch clearance all around when in the oven. This heat gets all around the cookies to brown them evenly.

Add milk, flavoring, and flour sifted with salt and baking powder, and beat. Add figs and oats and stir until well blended. Drop by small spoonfuls onto greased cookie sheet and flatten slightly. Bake in a moderately hot oven (400 deg. F.) 13 to 15 minutes. Press a nut meat, strips of fig or cherry into tops before baking, if desired. Birthday Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

Thursday, March 13, 1941

IF TODAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY—You have a bright future before you. Be guided with intelligent understanding and encouragement. You are a sensitive, sympathetic, intuitive individual who is easily discouraged if treated harshly or with derision. You are dependable, have sound judgment. You Can Be Beautiful

A New Latherless Shampoo

By ARLINE GOULD

IF YOU HAVEN'T had a compliment on your hair for such a long time that you can't remember that far back... you deserve to get really uneasy about it... for it probably means your hair is dull... or shedding in quantities, itself or dry cuticle (polite for dandruff).

Some people look on shampoo in the light of a more or less thorough cleansing... but that's all... and overlook the fact that a proper shampoo can restore lustre, help hair to grow more thickly, and certainly it can and should get rid of dry scalp cuticle... a source of plenty of troubles.

There's something new that we're pretty excited about... one reason being that improved, "latherless" shampoo like this are usually quite high priced... and that's a blend of special oils which does wonders in clearing the scalp! It's only 50 cents... and the name of the hair specialist who created it is as good as gold!

Strange as it may seem... this highly specialized mixture of oils is used instead of a regular soap shampoo... and rinses out as though it were the ordinary, everyday type of shampoo... yet the difference is noticeable in the increased sheen of the hair... in the manipulate cleanliness of the scalp. Men particularly should discover this new thought in improved shampoo methods with it they can give the old one-two to the bugaboo of thinning hair lines, due to choked follicles.

Perhaps the men don't care so much that it makes the hair shine more than any previous ever invented... but the women in their lives will certainly appreciate softer, sleeker, shinier hair... because this is the giddy, gay new hat season full on us.

If you'd like all further information on the scalp-clearing latherless shampoo, phone Arline Gould, Liberty 4000, weekdays except Saturday, or write care of the Boston Evening American, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

GOOD TO THE LAST DROP!

I've been reading one of the most exciting books I've ever touched. A veritable bomb of a book that shatters and stirs all one's sluggish sluggishness. The title sounds placid enough, "THE WORLD'S GREAT LETTERS," selected and edited by the famous publisher, M. Lincoln Schuster. But don't be fooled by the beguiling introduction, for... are no ordinary letters. Here are the outcries of men and women in their peak moments of agony, rage, inspiration and despair. Outcries that span pagan and Christian history... that bring living Alexander the Great, defying Darius, to Abraham Lincoln, consoling a mother who had given five sons to her country.

No one can scan these letters without being changed forever. And from them all one phrase has gripped me deepest, for it expresses each ardent spirit who wrote: "LIVE POSITIVELY!"

HE HAD one minute left to live. Then, like the other young dreamers who had died before him, he would be tied to the execution post... blindfolded... feel the final crashing blackout of the guns. One last brief gasp of life.

Into that last gasp the great Russian novelist, Dostoevsky, tried to cram his farewell salute to the brother, Mikhail, he loved above all others. And wherever there is human fear or despair, or the slow, dry rot of indifference, that letter will burn everlastingly like a flaming, cleansing torch.

"LIVE POSITIVELY!" cried the man who had only known 26 short years of life himself.

"Plan out your life... do not waste it. Arrange your destiny!... Life is a gift, life is happiness, each minute might have been an age of happiness... Life is everywhere, life is ourselves, not in what is outside us... To be a man among people and remain a man forever, not to be down-hearted nor to fall in whatever fortunes may befall me—this is life; this is the task of life."

DOWN through the ages that cry has come, from every valiant heart that ever dared to take his fate into his fighting fists and twist it to an honest purpose.

"LIVE POSITIVELY!" It does not matter what or where your job may be... or what handicaps you may have to carry. Such matters are often beyond our human determination.

And I'm telling you this, though you may be too young or too raw to realize it yet: IT'S YOUR DETERMINATION THAT WILL MAKE YOUR LIFE A HEAVEN OR A HELL. For the essence and flavor of life is "in ourselves, not outside ourselves."

BIG GEORGE HALLAM had been only 12 years of age when tragedy down in the Saguache Range of Colorado made him an orphan. Sale of the parental ranch, down beyond Pueblo, brought a few thousand dollars.

That was given in trust to George's guardian, a rich but parsimonious old fellow who lived on a well-kept dairy farm.

Waldo Hallam, the uncle and guardian, had inherited wealth and pride of family. He had lived plainly but well, never indulging himself in a wife and family because of the patent fact that such luxuries cost money. He had employed tenant farmers for his big dairy farm, and over the years had made it pay big dividends.

Since 1932 the place had been running at a slight loss, of course, though it could have run through eternity on just the interest of the fortune it already had made for Waldo Hallam.

Just the same the old man fussed and stewed, getting old much faster, worrying over the terrible fact that he was not getting richer at the same rate as of yore. He grudgingly allowed his ward, George Hallam, to finish out high school, since the boy insisted upon that much education.

Of course George had to work long hours on the dairy farm. He received no pay; just clothes of a sort, and food. He ate and slept in the home of the tenant farmer.

After high school, which George finished at the early age of 16, the tall, now gawky, but strong-chested lad slipped naturally into working 12 hours a day, seven days a week, on the farm. His uncle was able to discharge a hired hand, and thus save $30 a month.

BOY MEETS GIRL

No pay for George, of course. He was 20 before he received his first dollar. Another year, and the small patrimony would come to him. But snarling, peevish old Waldo hinted around that he intended to get a court order extending his guardianship; that no young whipper-snapper of 21 was able to care for money.

George just set his jaw and said nothing. He had his own ideas, but until the day he saw Billy Crandall, laughing, shouting, to boyish, and then having the time of his young life in a fold-out going down the rapids of the Housatonic river. George had no great purpose in life.

That one meeting with the prettiest girl he ever had seen, changed everything for the youth. No use blinking the fact. He fell deeply and hopelessly in love, for the first, and last time of his life. And the girl, who had come up with a crowd of Barnard girls of her own class, seemed to like George Hallam, too.

They saw each other summers, and corresponded in winter. The girl had to leave Barnard, and go to selling mah jongg sets at Macy's, because of family misfortunes. But she was the same lively laughing little baggage, and George, up there in the Berkshires, had set his square jaw, put his back into it, employed his imagination, and now was in a fair way to earn enough money so he could think of marriage as a possibility sometime soon.

He had persuaded his uncle to lease him a hilly and unproductive part of the dairy farm. There were a couple of old barns standing. Wrecking away from the talons of his guardian the few thousands of his patrimony, Big George (as they all called him now), built a corral, finished off one barn as a bunkhouse with one side for women, the other for men, erected a cookshack combined with dining lodge, brought in a few ponies bought for $15 a head in Arizona, bought western saddles, hired a couple of real cowboys to come along with the ponies and remain to work on the dude ranch—and then advertised for guests.

Surprisingly, they came! Next winter he called the place Barrancloof Sport Centre (Barrancloof being the name of the dairy farm). George got an expert to construct ski tows, cleared trails, and actually did some business the first winter. The next one would be profitable.

So it went. And when the day came he was taking an average of $50 a week out of the dubious venture. George married Billy Crandall. It looked to all of us who knew them that here was something just about ideal. They'd work and he be happy while they are young. By and by the old cudger would just naturally shelve up and blow away.

Then, unless Waldo Hallam surpassed himself for low-down nastiness, they'd have a dairy farm—plus the half-million of theirabouts old Waldo kept stuck down out of sight in the old sack.

OLDER AND MEANER

But, like such contrary coppers, old Waldo kept on living, getting meaner every year. George's lease about what he aimed to do. But when the girl spoke with bated breath to Big George about it, he calmly laid his arm around her shoulders and kissed her hair.

"Don't you worry, honey," he said. "I've thought it out. The past three years have been swell. I've made provision. Also I've come to believe that you can pay altogether too much for the prospect of inheriting a fortune. We've been happy on what I've made. I think we'll just stay that way!"

GEORGE MOVES

Billy smiled and kissed him tenderly.

That very day Big George had about a dozen workmen come. Old Waldo saw, and a gummy choit of malevolence and cupidly came out of his turkey neck and sunken lips. He clicked in his false teeth gathered up some waiting papers and hobbled down to the dude ranch office.

"You, George!" he shrieked, waving the papers. "I'm giving you due notice! Your lease is up, two weeks from now. I'm raising your rent, and if you want the place, you'd better sign up now!"

George turned and looked at him calmly. "How much d'you think and over and over again.

He hobbled around furiously, saying a mounting rage that he would have cowboys and keep less than old George that he would get a manager and have a winter sports center, and that if Big George thought he could go some where else and compete, he'd soon find out how impossible it all was.

But with the slow inevitability of a glacier, George got everything moved. He had a straight, bare hillside and about 20 acres of flat, rented now from a farmer who thought $75 a month of a long term lease simply a gift from heaven.

Even the furnishings on the new place were better and there was a lovely, central-located cottage only a quarter mile distant for Billy and the youngies.

It was to George's credit that he never minded the fact that he had abandoned the change in location, and with the first of July was going to start more business at the new ranch than he ever had done at the old.

Old Waldo? He's still alive, although they do say he fell down in a corn field and never got up. He has a nephew who is a much as manager of his place was for 10 years. Old Waldo told him, time after time, that when the lease expired he was going to double the yearly rent . . . or, perhaps, take over the dude ranch and sport center himself.

"You, George!" he thrilled, waving the papers. "I'm giving you due notice."

George never said anything, but unbeknown even to his pretty, easy-going wife, he began holding out a small sum each week, and salting it away in a secret bank account.

There was a little Billy Hallam now, aged three, a dimpled, smiling little mite of a wench whom everyone loved. Everyone except old Waldo, that is.

The years sped on. Time came that little Billy was finishing her kindergarten year. It was late spring in the Berkshires. On the first of June, two weeks away, Big George would be faced with the problem of renewing his lease with the old man, moving out, or going into some other line of business.

Billy had heard of old splutter-fuss gumming around malevolently the place is worth?" he asked.

"Thirty-six hundred a year!" shrieked old Waldo.

"Hm. Three hundred a month rent for—well, for some land that isn't worth much more than $300? Well, Uncle Waldo, I reckon you want it a lot worse than I do. I'm moving out. You can tear up your lease. You've got yourself a dude ranch and sport center!"

With which he went outside, and proceeded to give orders for removing the ski tows and machinery, to the workmen. Then he found the cowboys, and told them to pack up everything portable in the ranch-house, bunkhouse, cookhouse and stable. With the horses and ranchman steers, all this would be taken away during the afternoon.

"Move out? You can't do that! You'll force me to ruin you by competing! I—why, George, you wouldn't! I—" the old fellow —a man who could get the horses, equipment, cowboys and everything for a dude ranch, then manage a skiing center in winter.

The man had suggested $5000 a year salary, with a three-year contract, and $10,000 to spend on necessities.

They say old Waldo comes out and shakes his fist at the bare hillside now, then hobbles in and makes notes for his will, frothing with rage. But he probably never will make an actual will. Lawyers cost money.

THE END.

No Series Money Being Spent at Sarasota

Have Red Sox Lost Pennant Fever?

By HERB FINNEGAN

SARASOTA, Fla., March 13—Three weeks now with the Red Sox and still no talk of the pennant. And perhaps it's all for the best.

In other years down here it's been pennant, pennant, pennant. And nothing disillusioned a player more than to spend his World Series money and then not receive it.

Dream bubbles of new homes, new farm lands vanish into thin air. Every game is rehearsed in each player's mind to see where it was lost. A poor mental attitude.

There was no pennant for the Sox last year, when it was any club's for the asking. And the boys now realize that pennants are not won in the spring time or in the locker room.

So it's been work, work, work this spring instead of pennant, pennant, pennant and, as we say, it probably is all for the best.

No man on the club has worked harder than Manager Joe Cronin. Starting last Jan. 1 at the University Club in Boston, Cronin has been whipping himself into condition day in and day out until now he's worried whether he will lose his power at the plate if he gets down any finer. But if he can gain speed and agility at the sacrifice of some power the Sox will benefit.

There are a lot of good qualities to this club. Most prominent, of course, is its power. With hitters like DiMaggio, Finney, Fox, Williams, Tabor, Doerr and Cronin in the lineup one could easily expect them to slug their way to the pennant.

But it's been proved year in and year out that pennants aren't won with power alone.

"That 1940 Detroit infield was a lot worse than ours," said one veteran, "and yet the Tigers copped the flag."

Perhaps, but the Tigers had some pretty tasty pitching from Newsom, Rowe, Bridges, Newhouser, etc., which the Sox didn't have.

But there are signs that the Sox pitching is picking up. Definite signs.

Dickman, whom we always thought one day would be among the best pitchers in baseball, is positively terrific here. Rich's comeback is no longer a matter of conjecture. The big Carolinian seems to have arrived for good. Mickey Harris, while spotty, has a world of stuff.

Mike Ryba proves every time he steps to the mound that he didn't win those 24 games for Rochester last year by throwing his glove on the mound. His work against the Giants over at Miami was a treat to behold.

Herb Hash and Earl Johnson look much better than a year ago at this time. And Cronin is tickled to death with Jack Wilson and the improvement in young Bill Butland.

There isn't a standout pitcher on the club with Grove past his heyday, but there are six or seven young men and strong who seem to be on the verge of greatness.

If this is the year they finally arrive the Sox will be hard to beat, for they have great power, probably the best outfield in the game and a catcher in Frankie Pytlak who will help those young pitchers look and act more like major leaguers than they have in the past couple of years.

So if Detroit could win a pennant last year with their aged infield you can't deny this Sox club possibly could turn the trick.

Because pitching is the backbone of any ball club, and the Sox have shown definite signs that they'll have some respectable pitching this year.

BRUINS CAN CLINCH TITLE BY TYING AMERKS TONIGHT

Title bound, the Bruins embarked on their last regularly scheduled road trip this morning headed for New York where they will tangle with the lowly, dispirited Americans at Madison Square Garden.

FRIENDLY ENEMIES—After their intercity squash battle at the Philadelphia Cricket Club, Emily Saltonstall, standing, and Louise Felton pose for the cameraman. Miss Saltonstall, daughter of the Governor, won. She played for the Boston Junior Leaguers. Miss Felton for the Quakertown League unit.

HOPPE FACES CUE VETERAN

In an amazing display of cue the afternoon against Carl Moore, wizardry, Willie Hoppe, perennial world's billiard champion, last night defeated Jimmy Murphy, local player, by a score of 25 to 32 in 18.2 ballline billiards, ending the game with an unbroken run of 159.

Playing at the Twentieth Century Billiard Parlor before a capacity audience, Hoppe earlier defeated Harry Cox in a game of three-cushion billiards by a 40 to 16 score in 49 innings.

Today, Hoppe will pit his skill in

From Gotham they will head for Detroit to take a shot at afternoon hockey against the Wings on the Sabbath and then back home to close their season with these same Wings Tuesday night.

In these three remaining games the Bruins can drop two and tie one and still win the National Hockey League crown. And the betting is that the B's will be in mathematically tonight for those Americans have really been "cousins" to the Rossmen all year.

In their seven previous clashes, the Bruins have romped to six soft victories and were accidentally held to a tie on one occasion back in December. With the Americans out of the playoffs they are doing little more than finishing out their staling and if they should as much as hold the Bruins to a tie it would be a moral victory.

LESSON FROM LEAFS

The only fear evidenced around town this morning is the fact that the Bruins, looking ahead to the playoffs might try to coast and by taking things easy, they would run into trouble.

But Capt. Dit Clapper had the answer for this alarmism. "If the Toronto game did nothing else, Tuesday," chirped Clapper "it taught us a lesson that may result in our winning the Stanley Cup."

"That three-goal lead we took in the first period was a blessing in disguise. We figured we could lay back with a three-goal advantage and coast home but we soon found out that it was impossible."

"The Bruins can't play a tight defensive game which requires plenty of body checking. We're not that kind of an outfit. We play wide open streamline hockey and force right from start to finish despite the score."

EXPECT SWEEP

"When we found we were wrong against Toronto, we went back to our original type of play in the last nine minutes and were able to retain our one goal advantage."

"In fact we found more harm than good in trying to protect him. So, from now on out, we're not changing our type of play."

"By using the offense which has brought us such success this year, we should be able to go through our three remaining games without a loss and then be right on edge for that Toronto series," concluded Clapper.

With the other members of the squad sharing the sentiments of Capt. Dit, it's hard to see how the Bruins can miss clinching the championship in New York tonight.

MR. AND MRS. ARE THE MES—A happy family touch is brought to the training camp news by this picture of the three Bees pitchers and their wives. Left to right are the Wes Frells, the Jim Tobins and daughter Patsy, and the Joe Sullivans. Patsy has taken herself the Bees' good luck mascot, for the coming campaign. Maybe her good-luck efforts will take the Bees somewhere in the flag fight. With the best infield in the majors, a vital item for a flag bid, the Bees can go places this year. They were to face Minneapolis today.

Sullivan, Rucidlo To Hurl for Bees

By BILL GRIMES

NEW BRAUNFELS, Tex. March 13—After getting a fine shellacking from the St. Louis Browns yesterday over in the Mission City, the Bees moved to town today for a set-to with Manager Tom Sheehan's Minneapolis Millers.

Manager Casey Stengel has assigned Lefty Joe Sullivan, the veteran knuckle baller, and Joe Rucidlo to do the hurling. He was undecided as to whether Al Javery or Frank Lamanna would finish the game.

Neither Sullivan nor Rucidlo have been under fire this spring other than in batting practice, but Javery started the first game of the Browns' series last, and to be perfectly truthful didn't do so well. He was nicked for six hits and went for five runs in three innings before he was relieved by "Black Tom" Earley. But, on the other hand, Lamanna gave a fine account of himself during the last four innings of the second game. Joe Sullivan has shown to good advantage during batting practice drills, but Joe Rucidlo, who underwent a knee operation last fall, hasn't been on the mound for a week.

NO BREAKS FOR WES
For the third successive game, the Bees didn't get the proper pitching.

Wes Ferrell started, and after a scoreless first inning, despite the fact that he walked two men, he was nicked for five runs, which proved to be the ball game, on six hits in the next two rounds. Ferrell didn't look good. But it must be admitted that the conditions were not right, and also that the breaks were against him.

It was very apparent that Wesley Cheek wasn't bearing down, and also that he didn't get the support from his outfielders or the best of it from the arbiters. He was trying to pitch to spots, and it is too early in the season for him to have that kind of control.

ROMINELL MISSES ONE

After three innings, Dick Erickson took over the mound duties, and although he went for four runs in three rounds, he really had plenty of stuff on the ball.

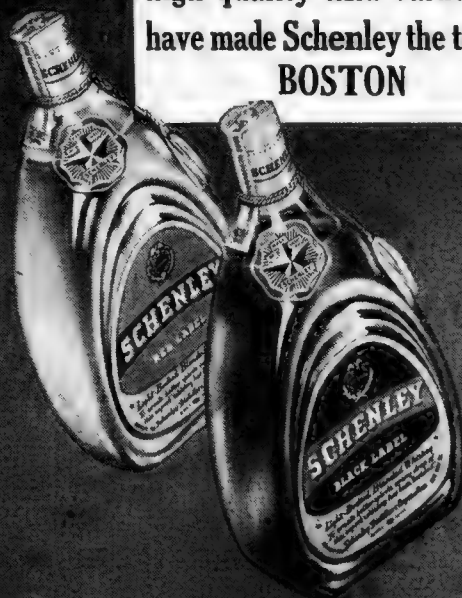

The three runs which the Browns pushed across on Erickson in the fourth inning could and should be charged to Umpire Eddie Rominell, who missed a right through the slot third strike on George McQuinn, thereby putting him on base instead of on the bench. But for that mistake on the part of the arbiter, Erickson might have weathered the round without allowing a tally.

Of the three pitchers who worked for the Bees, George Barnicle, the Fitchburg boy, made by far the best impression. "Barney" who had pitched for about a half hour of batting practice the previous day, was not only plenty "quick" but his control was far better than it usually is. During the two innings he was on the hill top, Barnicle allowed only one hit and only seven men faced him.

During the press conference last night Manager Casey Stengel, who is very strong for Barnicle and who hopes that the Fitchburg boy can show him enough to warrant his retention, frankly admitted that "Barney" again enters into the picture. And, also that he looked better to him than Javery, Earley or Strincevich.

Pee-wee Reese Boss Of Dodger infield

By the Associated Press

LAKE LAND, Fla., March 13—All the Detroit Tigers' rookie pitchers are going to work in exhibition games this spring before over a veteran toes the mound, because Mgr. Del Gaudio has an abundance of young talent and wants to see them perform as much as possible.

SAN BERNARDINO, Cal.—The Pittsburgh Pirates were weak in catching today in their exhibition game against the Philadelphia Athletics. Al Lopez has a swollen hand, Spud Davis an injured ankle and Eddie Fernandez has the flu, leaving only Joe Schultz, Jr., ready for service.

HAVANA—Pee-wee Reese will be the "holder guy" in the Brooklyn Dodgers' infield this year. Manager Leo Durocher asked Reese to take charge last year but the Louisville youngster didn't want to boss veterans like Dolph Camillo and Cookie Lavagetto his first year up. This year Reese will be commanded to give directions—out loud.

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla.—The Cleveland Indians are going to use five pitchers on their "big four" firing line, Bob Feller, Al Milnar and Jim Bagby with Smith and Mel Harder, who need more rest, alternately in the other slot. Clint Brown, Joe Heving and Harry Eisenstat are counted on for relief.

ORLANDO, Fla.—The Washington Senators dropped both their exhibitions to the New York Giants but Manager Bucky Harris found satisfaction in yesterday's pitching anyway. Sid Hudson had mid-season steam in working three shutout innings and Arnold Anderson showed good control.

NEW BRAUNFELS, Tex.—Wes Ferrell flunked his first pitching test with the Boston Bees, but was included today among 10 pitchers Manager Casey Stengel will take to Monterrey, Mexico, this weekend to face the St. Louis Browns. Ferrell gave five runs on six hits and four walks in three innings against the Browns yesterday.

AVAILON, Cal.—The Chicago Cubs have already started figuring out their batting averages. Outfielder Bill Nicholson will be in intrasquad games in April for eight hits in 14 times at bat and has driven in six runs. Rookie shortstop Len Merullo is next with 500.

MIAMI BEACH, Fla.—The Phillies were ordered out for a long drill today before opening their major league exhibition program against the New York Giants today. They needed it too—no show by nine errors in yesterday's intrasquad game.

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla.—Rookie John Grodzicki of the St. Louis Cardinals, who wintered in the Canal Zone, buried his second fine performance of the training season yesterday in keeping Cincinnati's world champions off base for three innings.

MIAMI, Fla.—Bill Terry brought his New York Giants back by bus from Orlando last night instead of making the seven-hour trip today. Thus the club will have an extra day of practice before resuming exhibition activities. Burgess Whitehead was left behind to recover from a sore throat.

PASADENA, Cal.—Manager Jimmy Dykes expects Johnny Humphries, pitcher from Cleveland, to take over Johnny Rigney's starting role for the Chicago White Sox if last year's 15-game winner is drafted. Right now, however, Humphries is the camp's fifth fly victim.

SAN ANTONIO, Tex.—Johnny Lucadello, who did a grand job at second base in the Boston Browns' 9-1 defeat of the Boston Bees yesterday, apparently is going to have plenty of opportunity to prove himself. Don Heffner, the regular custodian, may be out of action for a week or 10 days with the broken nose he suffered in practice.

SAN BERNARDINO, Cal.—Connie Mack, speaking of Philadelphia Athletics pitchers, says: "Johnny Babich, Bill Beckman, Chubby Dean, Nelson Potter and Jack Knott look like the men we'll start with. If Porter Vaughn doesn't come through for us sooner or later, then I just wouldn't know where to look for a pitcher. The boy has everything in the world except experience."

SARASOTA, Fla.—There was some question about what condition Catcher Ernie Lombardi would be in when he ended his holdout and showed up at the camp of the Cincinnati Reds. But his pal, Eddie Joost, described it like this: "He puts on a uniform, he grabs a bat, steps up to the plate, hits three pitches on a line to the outfield, and says, 'Well, I'm ready.' And he is."

Morgan, Westy, Manlapig Win

Ben Morgan, Texas terror, took the first and third falls to defeat Joe Cox in the main bout of the wrestling show before 3000 at the Arena.

Morgan accounted for the initial fall in 2:20 with an outside body lift and slam, lost the second via the same route in 14:15. He scored the decisive fall in 4:01 with a reverse back fall.

Westenberg won the semi-final, downing Tommy O'Toole in 28:35, and Pantaleon Manlapig pinned Dick Stahl in 11:15.

The other bouts resulted in draws between Leo Numa and George Lieban, and Matty Jones and Joe Maynard.

MORIN SISTERS, CONCORD, N. H., TO COMPETE IN BOWLING MEET

As in the past, bowling interest in the American-Record grand candlepin bowling tournament throughout the cities and towns outside this state is at a fairly high pitch. This is proven by the large amount of out-of-state mail which has been arriving at the Huntington Club Alleys on Huntington ave. where this year, the sixth annual bowlaway will once again take place from March 29 to April 12.

Included in the last mail were the signed entries from Concord, N. H., Providence and Warwick, R. I., and a few from Maine. From Concord came a girls' team entry representing the Carlson Motor Sales Co. This quintet is Irene Morin, Minda Holmes, Dorothy Morin, Violet Berg and Doris Morin. The Morins are sisters.

All the girls will also bowl in singles, doubles and mixed doubles. Minda Holmes will also team with Bill Adams in the mixed doubles. From Providence, came the entries of Doris Albro and Fred Gladue. Each will participate in the amateur singles.

Herb B. Brown from Warwick, R. I. sent along his entry with a notation that he expected to be right up with the leaders in the amateur singles class, barring none. He also sent word that more from his section are contemplating entering this year's classic which at this writing is running ahead of all previous years.

Don Littlefield and Elmer Peterson, both from Maynard, have entered the men's doubles of the open division. Time is continuing to wane. There is now less than two weeks before the grand opening on Saturday, March 29. Fill in the adjoining coupon and forward it to the Huntington Club, 255 Huntington ave., Boston.

THERE IS A FUTURE for professional boxing in Boston and throughout Massachusetts if the promoters, managers and boxers would give the same effort to build the sport as is done in hockey, baseball and football, Boxing Commissioner Sam Smith told me today.

"I was in the Garden the other night when the Bruins defeated the Toronto Maple Leafs," declared Smith. "The building was jammed and the big crowd witnessed a game packed with thrills. The players on both teams were of the best, and the fans felt they got full value for their money."

"The All-America diamond belt amateur boxing championships also filled the Garden, as did the Ice Follies. It was because they were good attractions."

"The Armstrong-Paul Junior bout of a year ago also witnessed a record outpouring of fans, because it looked like a real contest."

"The American sporting public insists upon value for its money. Boxing is as popular as ever, provided the promoters offer the right kind of shows."

"If New England can develop three or four top flight professional boxers you will find capacity crowds at ring shows at the Garden."

I mentioned that the development of new professional talent has been retarded on account of the lack of a small boxing club in Boston.

"You are right," replied Smith. "The Boxing Commission is willing to do its part to help correct the situation. We cannot promote boxing, but we can help make it possible for the promoters to survive. We are prepared to give a small club a license at a reduced fee, while we shall co-operate in every way in the charges for officials."

"In Holyoke, Homer Renault has a small club that runs boxing shows every week. These shows draw from $900 to $1800. They feature action fighters. The boys are evenly matched and the fans get a run for their money, which is why they return each week."

"A few clubs in Boston like the one in Holyoke would develop talent for big buildings like the Arena and the Garden. It costs a boxing club $2000 to open the doors at the Garden, so you can see it is impossible to stage ordinary matches in such a big place."

Boxers Should Accept Reasonable Purses

COMMISSIONER SMITH believes that the boxers and their managers should be more reasonable in their demands on promoters.

"Boxing promoters are obliged to pay too much for ordinary talent," declared Smith. "When the promoter gets through paying for his boxers and other overhead he frequently ends up heavily in the red. The promoter becomes discouraged and tosses in the sponge. The boxers then find there are fewer places for them to get bouts."

"For boxing to come back in Boston and in New England every person associated with the game must be willing to make sacrifices. Then with more regular shows new talent will be developed and the game will get going on high again."

"The defense program has already put a great deal of money into circulation. A part of this money has been received by sports fans who will turn out for good attractions. Boxing should make a bid for some of this business. Good competition is the best way to get it."

Smith called attention to the great crowds that attended boxing shows in Boston when Eddie Shevlin, Jack Sharkey, Jim Maloney, George (Kid) Lee, Dick Finnegan, Sammy Fuller, Al Mello, Andy Calahan, Jake Zermby, Joe Monte, Hambone Kelley, Tommy Robson, Pat McCarthy, Chick Suggs, Young Montreal, Freddy Yelle, Young Kloby, Paul Doyle, Nate Siegal and other illustrious fighting men were representing this section of the country.

"There isn't anything the matter with boxing other than that there have not been many good shows," insisted Smith.

"If Mike Kaplan can be signed for a world's welterweight title bout with Fritz Zivic the contest will draw a capacity crowd at the Garden," asserted Commissioner Smith. "This will be because the public will recognize it as a top match."

"If Kaplan had got the break in meeting Henry Armstrong before Zivic did he would have won the world's welterweight title. One must rate Kaplan with the first four welterweights."

"Amateur boxing has been drawing well here, as the fans like the action the almon pure give. You will find many boxing fans at the finals of the New England A. A. U. at the Garden on next Monday night. They will go there knowing they will get action and keen competition. If amateur boxing makes such a strong appeal I know that professional boxing would do even better with the proper kind of shows."

GOLDEN BOY — Dave Andrews of Lowell is all set to grab off the New England amateur welterweight title next Monday night at the Garden. Dave, known as the "Golden Boy," is best known for his battles with Ralph Albanese during the recent All-America trials.

McGowan Wins Golden Gloves Feather Title

NEW YORK, March 13 (AP)—Eight amateur fighters representing Philadelphia, New York, and Buffalo today looked ahead to the goal of all almon-pure boxers—the Inter-City Golden Gloves finals in Chicago, March 26.

The eight came through last night at Madison Square Garden in the finals of a three-day tournament that brought together representatives from 34 eastern and southern cities. They will meet a similar team already picked in Chicago.

Six of the titles went to Negro fighters, one to a Puerto Rican who speaks practically no English, and the other to Lester McGowan, baby-faced high school lad from Buffalo's famous Irish ward.

Philadelphia's titles were won by Henry Allen, heavyweight; Berlie Lonier, 160-pounds; Charley Bury, 147-pounds, and Louis Brooks, Wilmington steel worker, 175-pounds. All of the Quaker City victories in the finals were by decisions.

Diogenes Leon, Puerto Rico, won by a knockout, and Charles Davis by a decision to give New York its victories. McGowan was crowned 118-pound champion by decision, and Johnny Green, another school boy, gave Buffalo its other triumph with two-round knockout.

Louis Trains in Swanky Dance Hall for Simon Bout

DETROIT, March 13 (AP)—Fight training was never like this until Joe Louis returned to his home town to prepare for his 15th heavyweight title defense March 21 against big Abe Simon.

That's the testimony of Jack Blackburn, Louis' shrewd trainer, who gazes incredibly at the swanky training quarters and sighs reverently, "those boys in my day wouldn't believe it if they saw it."

The Louis training ring is pitched front and center on the slickest dance floor in Detroit's Harlem. Each day the 27-year-old champion, who sprang from a $5 a day job to the high income tax brackets, commutes 80 miles from his dude ranch at Utica, Mich., to appear in the air conditioned surroundings of Dance Paradise, and up to the minute jittering joint.

While he is holding around his spasmies, Joe's routine approaches the sphere of hot band music and glum dance steps.

LEONARD MOST LIKELY NEW ENGLAND FIGHTER TO WIN NATIONAL TITLE

Thirty-two rugged youngsters, the "cream" of New England's amateur boxing ranks, with but a single thought, will make next Monday night's annual N. E. A. A. U. championships the "Hit Parade of Boxing" in Boston for the season to date.

The title events will be held at Boston Garden with a card of 24 contests in the eight classes.

With an original entry list that reached the 300 mark, the battlers have been weeded out until only 32 remain in the fold, which includes Golden Gloves, All-America, Diamond Belt winners as well as the Mass. State champions of '41.

In no tournament held during the current season have the young punch throwers, had such a glorious goal to reach as that in winning a New England championship on Monday night.

First there is the opportunity to be acclaimed champion of New England. Then there is the beautiful "George V. Brown Trophy" donated by the New England A. A. U. boxing committee to be awarded the outstanding performer. And the third and most sought after prize is the opportunity to represent New England in the nationals which is to be held at the Garden on March 31, April 1 and 2.

FAVOR LEONARD FOR TITLE

The milling in the featherweight and middleweight divisions should be terrific, as in each class there is entered a former New England champion at a lighter weight.

The 126-pounders listed for action are Jackie Heard, 23-year-old Boston bellboy, and present state champion, one of the best Negro boxers seen in New England amateur circles for many years; Charlie Pierce, 22-year-old Brockton shoe worker, who has a record of 49 victories in three years of competition; Dominic "Snuffy" Palmariello, 24-year-old Boston fruit peddler with a slate of 20 wins in six months of ring warfare, and Francis Leonard, Taunton truck driver, the present New England All-America champion and former New England A. A. U. 118-pound champion of the 1939 season.

Leonard is one of the cleverest youngsters in New England and many expect the Taunton boy to go on to win the national title this year.

LOWELL BOYS

For real toe-to-toe slugging it will be hard to find four boxers who will surpass the punching ability of the 160-pounder Sol Cesario, Boston, the Golden Gloves, Mass. State and Diamond Belt winner, is well known to all New England fight fans for his punching power.

Then there are Jimmy Mulligan, Keith Academy student in Lowell, who won the New England 147 pounds championship last year but who has outgrown that division, a very clever southpaw who has a record of 50 wins in his short time of competition; Tommy Hill, another Lowell youngster, who is employed as a dyehouse worker in one of the mills in that city and who has run up a record of 115 victories and 40 losses in his two years of competition; and Alfred Ortero, Boston WPA worker, a youngster of Spanish descent, a newcomer who has amazed fans at recent Monday night shows at the Arena with his deadly punching power and his clever exhibition of ring footwork.

2 MASS. TEAMS IN CATHOLIC HOOP TOURNEY

By SAM BROGNA

The battle for the eighth annual New England Catholic High School tournament to be contested among eight selected schools, gets under way tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock at the Arena. Following the opening day play the grand tourney of the parochial schools will continue Saturday with the semi-finals and on Sunday afternoon with the finals.

Unlike previous seasons, this year's classic extends through three days, instead of the usual two. This is because the St. Botolph emporium is available for three consecutive days.

Teams from Massachusetts, Maine, Rhode Island, New Hampshire and Vermont are listed to compete. Massachusetts is represented with two teams, one from Lynn and the other from Waltham. Holy Family of New Bedford and St. John's of Worcester are the other two schools from this state.

The other quartet of teams are St. John Baptist of Bangor, Me.; St. Joseph's of Manchester, N. H.; St. Michael's of Montpelier, Vt., and La Salle of Newport, R. I., defending champions.

GREATER BOSTON FINAL

Each school boasts of a remarkable record, few of which will be equaled in years to come. With this as an added incentive, this year's classic should surpass the previous seven.

The opening game of the tournament brings together St. Mary's of Waltham and John Baptist, starting at 3 o'clock. This will be followed by St. Joseph's of Manchester and St. John's of Worcester. And in the evening, St. Mary's of Lynn and Holy Family of New Bedford clash at 8 o'clock with the final preliminary round contest between De La Salle and St. Michael's slated to follow.

Local interest will be focused on the two Greater Boston quintets. It will be interesting to note that each school has been placed in opposite halves making it possible for a C. B. final should both survive the two opening round play. This is far from being impossible since both have good chances. But of the two, the Lynn aggregation appears to have the better chance to reach the finals.

The North Shore school, under the tutelage of Coach Tom Kennedy, went through a string of 20 straight games without a defeat, the last of which was an exhibition game with St. Patrick's.

SCORED 700 POINTS

In setting up this unblemished record, it tucked away the northern division championship and then defeated Our Lady's of Newton in two straight games in the playoff for the league title.

The team possesses plenty of scoring ability as shown by the 700 points scored to its opponent's 337.

Hockey Championships Open at Garden Tonight

The fight for the national amateur hockey championship opens at the Garden tonight, but, due to a last minute shift, the Atlantic City Sea Hawks and the North Jersey All-Stars will both be missing.

Artisans Hold Edge in Reggias

With only three more events of the qualifying round to be run off before the finals Saturday, a strong Mechanic Arts track team was far ahead of its opponents in qualifying boys and the possibility of retaining its Regimental championship appears very bright.

The qualifying round comes to a close this afternoon at the 101st Infantry Armory with running of all the dashes, and the 175 and 220-yard runs.

Upon conclusion of yesterday's events, Mechanic Arts had a representation of 16 boys for Saturday's finals. English, its only serious threat, was next with 11. Hyde Park came next with 7; South Boston 6; Trade, Commerce, Latin and East Boston with 4 each; Roslindale 3 and Jamaica Plain and Brighton made up the vanguard with 1 each.

Roxbury Memorial, which usually has a fairly strong track team, failed to make one qualification.

Tom Lockhart, president of the A. H. A. informed Herb Rabby, N. E. prexy, that the draft had practically wrecked both Skeeter State clubs.

Starting in place of the two Jersey teams will be the Flying Frenchmen of Woonsocket, R. I. and Hans Wineberger's Boston Reds.

COLORFUL SEXTET

The Frenchmen will clash with the Metropolitan Tigers in the lower part of the draw, while the Reds will meet the Junior Olympics. The Juniors took the Reds into camp in the finals of the recent New England championships.

The Woonsocket sextet will add color and dash to the opening round. The Rhode Islanders are made up of the best hockey players to come out of the famous M. I. St. Charles school, perennial schoolboy champs of Little Rhody.

The first face-off tonight is slated for 8 p. m., at which time the defending titlists, the 97 Club of Boston will clash with the Lewiston Tigers. Playing alternating periods with the 97 Club and the Cyclones, the Maine champs, Notre Dame H. C. of Waterville, will clash with the Springfield Braves.

FINALS SATURDAY

The second bracket is expected to start around 9 o'clock when the Junior Olympics meet their local rivals, the Boston Reds. Alternating with this pair will be the Flying Frenchmen and the Met Tigers.

The semi-finals will be played at the Garden tomorrow evening with a 7 p. m. cap-off.

Finals are slated for Saturday evening prior to the Olympic-Baltimore contest, and regular Olympic prizes will prevail.

Behind the Net

The David A. Hart Trophy has been an annual NHL presentation since 1924, and is awarded to the player voted "most valuable" to his team during the season. . . . Frank Nighbor, the old Ottawa superb stickhandler and first noted exponent of the play-stopping "poke-check," was first to win the Hart Trophy. . . . The Bruins' burly, bald bad-man, Ed Shore, won the cap most times, four, and the Canadiens' sparkling speedster, Howie Morenz, was a triple winner. . . . Hefty, high-scoring Nels Stewart was the only other player to gain the award more than once, winning it with the Maroons in '26 and '30. . . .

Hatlo LEAHY PLANS 'WIDE OPEN' GAME AT N. D.

SOUTH BEND, Ind., March 13 (AP)—Given a break in material, Frank Leahy is going to throw Notre Dame football "wide open" next fall.

The 32-year-old gridiron coach and athletic director, who formerly began his new job yesterday at the opening of spring practice, said today that he plans to use the same style of offense with his new squad as he did at Boston College, where his 1929 and 1940 teams won 20 out of 22 games.

"If the material comes up we'll show them something different," said Leahy, successor to Elmer Layden, who resigned to become commissioner of the National Pro Football League.

TRIED GOOFY STUFF

"By that I don't mean that Layden didn't produce great teams," said Leahy. His record of 47 wins, 13 defeats and three ties in seven years is a remarkable one which I only hope we can match.

"But at Boston College we tried 'goofy' stuff. Quick opening plays, long passes and short passes. At Boston College we were fortunate in having a fine passer and runner in Charley O'Rourke. If we come up with a good passer here next fall, we'll really open up. We gambled at Boston College and we'll gamble here if we have a chance."

In Owen (Dippy) Evans, Leahy may have the passer he needs. Evans, Halfbacks Steve Juzwik and Steve Bagarus, and Quarterback Bob Hargrave will form the nucleus of the Irish offense next fall when the Irish meet Arizona, Indiana, Georgia Tech, Carnegie Tech, Illinois, Army, Navy, Northwestern and Southern California.

WILLING TO GAMBLE

"The only prediction I'll make about our 1941 team," said Leahy, "will be that we'll have a team ready at the kickoff for every game next fall. Competition here, especially with Western Conference teams met year after year, will be tough. But I hope to put a speedy, fast shifting team on the field. We will be ready to gamble with things out of the ordinary—when the occasion rises."

"We"—and he indicated his assistant coaches, John Druze, Ed McKeever and Joe McCardie—"are happy to accept the challenge here. We'll make no attempt to emulate the immortal Knute Rockne. That can't be done. But we know the country will be watching Notre Dame next fall—that the pressure is really on. So we'll just try to come up with a good, fighting team typical of the tradition that always has been Notre Dame."

LIONS SIGN LIO

DETROIT, March 13 (AP)—The Detroit Lions football club announced here today that Augie Lio, six-foot, 227-pound guard on the Georgetown University team last fall, has signed a contract to play with the Lions.
